

JAPS ON GUADALCANAL MOWED DOWN IN FUTILE EFFORT TO CAPTURE AIRFIELD

Don't Be Cold, Says Frost Keep Sights High, Major Urges in Support of Fund

By MEIGS O. FROST.

Major, United States Marine Corps.

This is the first time in 35 years, during which I have written millions of words for daily newspapers, that I ever used a capital "I" in a newspaper story. I wouldn't do it now if it wasn't for my old friend Charlie Stair, chairman of your Atlanta Community Fund, and those thousands of other Atlanta men and women so sincerely engaged in helping him try to raise it. But now that I have started, let's have a personal chat with many an "I" in it.

It happens that I know something about Community Funds. We call it the Community Chest in New Orleans, my home between wars. I was one of the two men, weary of countless "drives" every year, who sat in a hotel room there and out of our evening of talk the New Orleans Community Chest was born.

It happens that in 35 years of active newspaper work and some military service I have seen a great deal of this nation of ours and this world of ours. I have seen this world at its best and at its worst. Its worst can be awful.

I have seen suffering I hate to remember but can't forget. Some of it has been where fighting men were trying hard to kill each other. And when I say suffering among fighting men I don't mean merely wounds or weariness they bring out of the hell through which war makes them go. I have seen them come out of action more worried, worried to the point of agony, about what was happening to their mothers, their wives, their children back home, than they were over what might hit them next.

The boys who are fighting for you on today's battlefronts deserve peace of mind over what's happening back home. They'll hold the battlefront better for you if you'll hold the home front for them.

But, big as war looks now, and big as war always has looked in the past, I think I have seen more misery in great cities when we were at peace than I have seen at the front in war. There are millions of us today who can't pick up a gun and help cure the world's war miseries. But almost everyone who isn't in uniform can help cure the miseries at home. If they do not do it that is as shameful a thing as when men in uniform in the front line throw down their guns and run.

Atlanta has been my headquarters since February 1, 1941. I have grown to love this city. I won't say I have grown to love it more than my home in New Orleans because that would be asking a lot. But I have come to love this city and its people. I have come to share the pride of all Atlantans in their city and in their accomplishments. I share that pride in the way in which they live up to their obligations. I was proud as any Atlantan when Atlanta went over the top and exceeded its quota for the War Fund. I have learned and come to feel pride in all of Atlanta's achievements in every good cause over many years. When I heard first of the Community Fund I was ready to offer odds Atlanta was going to beat its quota this time, too. But I was stunned to learn from the facts and figures of past performances that in the past 19 years since that fund was started Atlanta has never met its budgeted requirements for the minimum need of its charities. I am a newspaper reporter. Instinctively I began to ask why.

Here's what the cold facts and figures showed:

In this particular field Atlantans seem always to have

First Report Shows Fund Gets $122,025

Instances of increased giving on a scale that means complete success if the trend is continued were reported yesterday as workers in the Community Fund appeal, in their first general rally at the Atlanta Athletic Club, turned in $122,025 in pledges.

While 200 women employees of the Marcus Loeb Manufacturing Company voted to give $1 a month each for five months, representing an increase of more than five times over last year's subscription from this firm, an individual subscription of $10,000, the largest personal gift in the history of the Fund, was announced.

Pledges Show Gain.

Ernest Brewer, secretary to Mayor Hartsfield, reported that in five groups of city employees who have completed their Fund solicitation so far, total pledges showed a gain of more than 100 per cent. These typical increases show, C. A. Stair, general appeal chairman, said that the will to succeed in this wartime appeal is being shown by givers in all walks of life.

"I think this year we shall not make our appeal in vain," Stair said. "For 19 years we have failed to provide for the minimum requirements of the 32 member agencies of the Fund which are meeting human needs in the Atlanta area."

But this year there is a determination, as well as the ability to set a higher standard of generosity, to show a willingness to fight at home for the things our Army and Navy are fighting for all over the world.

Total Goal.

The pledges reported yesterday, representing about a fifth of the total goal, came largely from Section 1 of the Advanced Gifts Division, headed by J. N. McEachern, R. B. Wilby and Robert Strickland. Pledges totaling $99,836 were reported.

The Neighborhood Division, composed of more than a thousand women workers, were honored at the first rally, with Mrs. Murdock Eguen, chairman, presiding.

"There have never been so many women volunteers in a Community Fund appeal, or any other civic effort of this kind, before," she said. "Every worker is doing a grand job, and I feel confident."

Soviets Admit 2 Withdrawals At Stalingrad

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Thursday, Oct. 29.—

(P)—The Russians today acknowledged their second withdrawal in the battle-torn city of Stalingrad in 24 hours, but reported that the Red army had made gains north-west of Stalingrad and on the Black sea front of the west Caucasus.

The midnight Soviet communiqué said the Germans had advanced about 200 yards at one point in the factory district of north Stalingrad after gaining about two blocks during the previous night by throwing in huge masses of men, tanks and planes.

At another point, the communiqué said, a company of motorized infantry broke through Soviet lines to the southwest outskirts of one factory, but was completely wiped out.

Intense Fighting.

The intensity of the fighting in Stalingrad was indicated by Russian claims that Soviet artillery and mortar fire and air attacks had destroyed 12 companies of German infantry (more than 2,000 men), 30 tanks, 90 trucks and 18 artillery batteries.

Moscow radio reported that the Red army's relief attack north-west of Stalingrad had resulted in further Russian gains after fierce hand-to-hand fighting which cost the Germans 1,200 dead.

The communiqué, referring to fighting in this sector, said the Germans had launched eight counterattacks against one height, but that all the attacks were repelled and the Russians launched counterblows killing more than 500 enemy troops.

Dramatic Reversal.

Soviet dispatches from the Black sea area reported a dramatic reversal of the military position in which the Nazis were rolled back from Tuapse in heavy mountain combat.

The communiqué said the Germans had thrown reserves into this sector and had tried to take a height held by the Red army. The Russians, however, fought until the Germans were exhausted and then counterattacked, killing about 200 Germans.

Farther west in the Caucasus,

Air Rendezvous Is Blamed In Big Air Crash

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—(P)—A congressional committee today laid the blame for the crash of an airliner, killing its 12 occupants, to an air rendezvous between the pilot of an Army bomber and the co-pilot of the commercial ship.

The two planes collided last Friday night near Palm Springs.

Today, the Army formally charged the bomber pilot, Second Lieutenant W. N. Wilson, of West Los Angeles, with manslaughter.

A few hours later, the congressional committee headed by Representative Jack Nichols, Democrat, Oklahoma, reported that Lieutenant Wilson and the liner's co-pilot, First Officer L. F. Report, of Dallas, had met at a party the night before and Wilson had arranged his takeoff from the ferrying command airfield at Long Beach to conform to the liner's scheduled departure.

A coroner's jury at Palm Springs yesterday blamed the crash on collision of the two planes. An Army board concurred in the finding today.

Nichols said: "It has developed from the Army's board of investigation in Long Beach that Lieutenant Wilson on the night before the crash met with the co-pilot of the airliner at a party some place and that night agreed that Lieutenant Wilson would time his takeoff from Long Beach."

Atlanta, Gainesville, Athens, Rome Hotels Filled for Big Game

By FRANK DRAKE.

If Sherman had conducted his march to Atlanta this weekend instead of when he did, the tale would have had a different ending. This weekend, he couldn't have got into the town.

Atlanta is going to be slap-bang jammed with folks here to see the classic of the football season—the clash between the University of Georgia and the University of Alabama, and even Sherman couldn't get a hotel room unless he made reservations days ago.

Thousands upon thousands of visitors are expected—despite gas and tire rationing and other difficulties of travel, and all the hotels in the city yesterday were sold out for Saturday night—which, incidentally, is going to be a haymaker here because it's Halloween, too.

Hotel men said: "We have sold every room we have got in the house and have just about filled up all the hotels in Athens, Gainesville and Rome, too."

Night spot managers—licking their chops no doubt at the prospect of what Saturday night is going to be, declared not a single table is left for would-be revelers.

Extra beds were being hauled out of storage by the hostesses and restaurants were stocking their kitchens in anticipation of the gag that will invade the city for the weekend, beginning with the early birds who will arrive tomorrow.

Several conventions at the hotels are swelling the throng but the main attraction, of course, is the question to be decided soon after the whistle blows on Grant Field at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon—which is the best team, Georgia or Alabama?

Can Sinkwich sink the Crimson Tide? Or vice versa?

So many people want to see the answer to this that ticket scalpers were said yesterday to be asking—and getting, mind you, as high as $50 a pair for seats within sight of the 50-yard line.

The police said they were going to put a stop to this highway robbery.

THEY FIGHT FOR THIS—Only shells of buildings are left along most of Stalingrad's streets, but the Russians continue their valiant defense after more than two

World's Largest Oil Pipe Line To Begin Deliveries by June 1

300,000 Barrels Set as Daily Flow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(P)—At the rate of 300,000 barrels a day, oil to lubricate the Allied war machine and take some of the squeaks out of eastern transportation troubles will start flowing out of swelling southwestern stores through the world's largest pipe line next June 1, federal officials announced today.

First link of the underground, lubrication line—a 530-mile leg from Longview, Texas, to Norris City, Ill.—will be completed this December, and for the next five months oil will be transhipped on eastward by train, barge and truck.

But assurance that the final 857-mile link would be completed came today when Chairman Donald M. Nelson, of the War Production Board, said that 224,000 tons of steel would be allocated for the extension.

Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes said the line would be laid from Norris City across Indiana and Ohio to Phoenixville, Pa., from where branch lines will be laid to the Philadelphia area.

Expected to ease the oil pressure which has forced shutting down of some southwestern oil

Italian Leads RAF Squadron Raiding Italy

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—(P)—A Swiss newspaper reported today that a son of Giacomo Matteotti, the Italian Socialist deputy who was killed in May, 1924, by members of the Fascist party he so bitterly opposed, led one of the RAF squadrons which Sunday night bombed Milan, Turin and other points in northern Italy.

The report was published by the Socialist newspaper Libera Stampa of Lugano, which said it was obtained from a Polish flyer whose plane crashed in Italian territory when hit by anti-aircraft fire during the Sunday raids but who managed to escape across the Swiss frontier, where he surrendered to Swiss officials.

U. S. SHIP TORPEDOED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(P)—A medium-sized U. S. merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the North Atlantic the latter part of September, the Navy announced today.

45,000 'Stars' Distributed By Constitution

As this edition of The Constitution goes to press, more than 45,000 sterling silver Stars of Honor have been distributed to this paper's readership—and are now being worn by people back home as proud symbols of loved ones in the armed forces of our country.

Since the Stars of Honor were first made available, a steady procession has filed by the Want Ad desk of The Constitution, a constant parade of Atlantans who wanted stars to wear in honor of husbands, fathers, sons, brothers, sweethearts of other loved ones.

These sterling silver stars may be obtained for 20 cents each, plus 2 cents federal jewelry tax. When ordering by mail, send 25 cents for each star—the added 5 cents to cover postage and handling.

Navy's Damage To Equipment of Foe Very Heavy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(P)—Japanese trying to take the vital air field on Guadalcanal are being mowed down in far greater numbers than the American defenders, the Navy announced today in a communiqué which also described the damage to enemy equipment as "very heavy."

Possibly because of the losses they have suffered since they launched their full-scale offensive on October 23, the Japanese reduced their operations on the night of October 26-27 to several "small-scale thrusts" against the American positions. All of these attacks were thrown back.

Otherwise, naval officers interpreted a communiqué making these announcements today as indicating that the fighting in the Solomons was in a lull. They emphasized, however, that there was nothing to indicate that Japanese naval forces had withdrawn from the area of the fighting.

Lull in Sea Battles.

After a series of furious sea battles which erupted at several points in the vicinity of the Solomons over the weekend, it was only natural that both sides should be catching their breath and taking stock of the resulting situation.

Describing the losses in the land fighting, the communiqué said: "Enemy losses in men and equipment in troop actions on the island since October 23 have been very heavy as compared to our own."

Naval officers added to this the information that American losses have been light.

The period covered by the statement of losses included much land fighting. This reached an apparent climax on the night of October 24-25.

Light Thrusts.

Then an attack from the south penetrated positions held by the Army. The Japanese were driven back before dawn, however, and all American positions were recaptured. Meanwhile, Marines on the north of the air field gained some ground.

Since then, the communiqué said, "no report of any action (other than the light thrusts on the night of October 26-27) has been received." Naval officers emphasized that the department here was in continuous touch with the fighting forces in the Solomons.

Burns Found On Babies Lead To Arrest Here

A 19-year-old father of twin 2½-month-old boys was arrested by city police last night on a charge of disorderly conduct, assault and battery. Police said burned places were found on the children's bodies.

The father was listed as J. D. Stephens, of 128 Currier street, N. E. He is scheduled to be arraigned in recorder's court at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

He was arrested by Radio Patrolmen G. M. Robinson and W. D. Nash, after the mother had called police. Radio Patrolman J. D. Timney and T. P. Epps made a preliminary investigation and then summoned Detectives W. E. Petty and G. R. Elliott for further inquiry.

British Win First Round in Desert; Major Test Looms

By DON WHITEHEAD.

CAIRO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The advance tank force of Britain's Eighth Army has won the first round with Field Marshal Rommel's armor in battles through the Alamein mine-field gaps, and dispatches from the desert front said today that the British onslaught was steadily widening the way for the major test of rival steel and gun power.

Over the shell-pocked battle-ground and the bomb-pitted ports of Rommel's supply lines the Allied airforce kept German and Italian planes on the defensive.

United States fighters reported their biggest day of the campaign, downing seven planes out of yesterday's Allied bag of 18. Three of them were shot down by Lieutenant Lyman Middlemich, Highlands, N. J., fighter pilot in the Black Scorpion squadron. Total Allied losses were six planes.

The British Middle East Command announced that further progress had been made Monday in night fighting and gave this account of the first tank test of the new campaign:

"Yesterday an armored clash on a larger scale than hitherto developed.

"After considerable fighting the enemy were driven off with a considerable loss. Our own losses in tanks were light. Fighting continues.

"There was no abatement in our attacks during the night and day of October 26 and 27."

Dispatches from the front indicated that Axis losses already had been heavy, both in tanks and men. There was no authoritative estimate, however, on the number of Rommel's tanks put out of action in the first five days of the fight, and it was clear that by far his main armored power was poised back of the battlefield.

Groups of prisoners trailed back over the British supply lines told of the terrific barrage the El Alamein line had been under day and night since the start of the offensive as British artillery blasted a way through the minefields and barbed wire for infantry of the Army of the Nile.

German and Italian communications said the British attack was pressed hardest on the north or seaward flank of the battle line. The Germans said they were putting up "heavy but successful defensive fighting."

(The exact extent of the Eighth Army's penetrations of the Axis defense system has not been defined, but a Reuters dispatch from London from a correspondent at the front was datelined "West of the El Alamein Line," indicating that the British were fanning out behind Rommel's first defenses.

(Lord Croft, parliamentary undersecretary for war, said in London "we know by now there may be a gap or gaps through which our main armor may be able to deploy." He commented that the British had made "good progress in the north where three objectives allotted to them mostly were gained and held.")

Even before joining in the action, Rommel's main tank forces were under attack at their gathering points back of the line by British and United States bombers and fighter-bombers who swept the front and ranged back to the port of Matruh.

The desert air task force of the United States Army Forces in the Middle East continued relentless attacks against the enemy throughout Tuesday," said a communiqué from the United States headquarters.

Combined Operations.
"In a series of combined operations with Allied light bombers, medium bombardment aircraft bombed enemy landing grounds, motor convoys, tank concentrations and the Matruh dock area. Many direct hits were observed. "Our fighters flying on patrol and bomber escort, and our fighter-bomber missions encountered fairly heavy enemy air opposition. Three ME-109's and four CR-42 Italian fighters were shot down."

Battlefront dispatches said the Americans had a hard-fighting part in the biggest aerial struggle of the day.

It developed during the afternoon when 20 German Messerschmitt 109's 20 German Stukas and 20 CR-42 Italian fighters tried to intercept a flight of Allied fighter-bombers returning from an attack on the Daba landing ground.

Heavily outnumbered, American fighter pilots roared into the melee.

The outstanding hero of the engagement was Lieutenant Middlemich, who added three Messerschmitts to his record. He already had been credited with one Axis plane shot down last Sunday.

Hero of the Day.

The New Jersey fighter pilot finished off one Messerschmitt within a few minutes and was attacked by three others. He turned on these and downed his second, which plunged to the ground and burst into flames. The others he maneuvered out to sea where he sent his third Messerschmitt plunging into the water.

Out of ammunition, he shook off the last of his pursuers and reached his base safely.

The American fighters and the guns of the American, British and South African fighter bombers accounted in this fight for 10 of the day's 18 Axis planes downed.

New Marine Units Arrive in Britain

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The United States Marine Corps announced today that additional units of Marines have arrived in the British Isles.

Colonel William T. Clement, Navy Cross veteran of Bataan and Corregidor, commanded the Marines.

He will serve on the staff of Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in the European theater, replacing Colonel Franklin A. Hart, who participated in the Dieppe raid before being transferred to another theater of operations.

MOVEMENT OF WORKERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Tentative plans for the movement of skilled workers from Puerto Rico to the continent for the double purpose of relieving labor shortages in war industries and unemployment in the island were studied today by high government officials and Santiago Iglesias, acting Puerto Rican labor commissioner.

ALERT IN BUCHAREST.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The Vichy radio said that a half-hour raid alert occurred last night in Bucharest, capital of Rumania. No details were given but both Soviet bombers and U. S. planes previously have attacked Rumania.

Practice Alert Is Sounded at Ellijay

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ELLIJAY, Ga., Oct. 28.—What turned out to be a practice alert was telephoned by the commanding major to Captain J. L. Johnson and Lieutenant Dow Hamrick of the local unit of the Georgia

State Guard, resulting in posting of a guard, armed with machine-guns and shotguns, within 15 minutes at the local waterworks, telegraph station and bridges.

The local unit, commanded by veterans of previous wars, drills each Monday night and on call, and was recently classed as "excellent" by a regular Army major who inspected the group.

TRIM WAISTLINE, TOO—Second Lieutenant Clark Gable receives congratulations from Lieutenant General H. H. Arnold on his trim figure acquired in 11 weeks of stiff training. Gable got his commission in the Army Air Forces yesterday.

Army Has Discipline To Win, Declares Lieutenant Gable

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Screen Idol Clark Gable, a soldierly spokesman for 2,500 new Air Corps officers, assured his legion of movie admirers today that the United States Army has the discipline to win the war.

Waves of applause from the biggest crowd ever to attend a graduation from the Miami Beach Air Forces schools greeted the handsome actor's assertion that "the important thing, the proud thing I've learned about us is that we're men."

Bronzed and trim, Gable stood on the speaker's platform facing his classmates as the entire group took the oath that made them second lieutenants in the Army.

Lieutenant General Henry H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air Forces, himself congratulated Gable and the other graduates who selected the actor-soldier to represent them at the impressive military ceremonies, conducted on a golf course fairway now used as a parade ground.

Second Lieutenant Gable apparently had lost none of his charm during the rigorous eleven weeks of his officer-candidate training. Women fans pressed near the stand after the commissioning for a closer look at him. Smiling in his best screen manner, he reached through the ranks of high-ranking dignitaries to shake hands with each of the clamoring group.

For Gable, who made $357,000 last year as an actor, the graduation to a lieutenant brought a raise in pay from the $66 he had made as a corporal during training to $1,800 a year and allowances.

Although Gable joined his class 10 days late, he managed to catch up with the others and became a platoon sergeant in the OCS organization.

General Arnold, principal speaker at the ceremonies, told the graduates they were joining a growing organization—the air forces—which would have two and a half million officers and men by the end of the year.

"You'll need all the ability and resourcefulness you possess to survive—and win—when you get into the combat zone," General Arnold said.

The general told of a recent inspection trip to the Pacific war zone, where he found morale high and the air forces confident of winning the war.

Gable now permitted another mustache. MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Officer Candidate Clark Gable had to shave off his mustache but Second Lieutenant Gable may grow another one if he wishes.

For the 11 weeks he was a student in the Army Air Forces Officer Training school here, Gable had a bare upper lip. Under orders, he whacked off his actor's mustache the day he reported here.

He was graduated as a second lieutenant today, and other officers understand he will let his trim lip adornment sprout again. Gable is in the Army now, so he wasn't available to speak for himself.

Finland To Get Food Aid, Nazi Radio Says NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A German broadcast said today hungry Finland had been pledged Nazi help for the next 12 months in feeding her people with whatever her own agriculture cannot provide.

Only recently, the Finnish themselves announced their grain harvest would fall 250,000 tons short of normal requirements.

Farm Leaders Meet To Work Out Problems

Transportation Difficulties Discussed by Agents of 9 States.

Agricultural leaders from nine southern states gathered here yesterday to work out problems in vegetable marketing brought on by war conditions.

Frederick V. Waugh, assistant administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Administration from Washington, outlined some of the problems that confront southern vegetable growers today. He discussed the production goals which call for increases in most food crops, pointed out the bottlenecks of production, labor shortages, transportation difficulties, and so on.

Transport Problems. He emphasized lend-lease buyers, army quartermasters, and the larger food industries deal only in large lots, usually a carload or more. Thus the farmer's problem is not so much one of demand for his goods, but of getting his produce to a market where large quantities can be assembled and sold. This brings up further problems of transportation, standardization, financing and inspection. Dr. Waugh pointed out several directions that constructive market programs might take.

I. W. Duggan, southern regional director of AAA from Washington, pointed out that vegetable growers need a price floor, as well as price ceilings. "And," he added, "they need some assurance of being able to receive that floor price. A price floor does no good if the farmer cannot find a buyer for his goods. This is especially true in dealing with perishable commodities like vegetables."

Fair Price Attention. Duggan suggested the meeting should give attention to ways of assuring that farmers will be able to dispose of their produce at fair prices.

Colonel Palmer selected eight committees and asked them to develop recommendations covering a program of federal, state and farmer co-operation on the subjects assigned. These committees will report their recommendations at tomorrow's session.

States represented at meeting: Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Mississippi.

Cordele Bombardier Is Reported Wounded. Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CORDELE, Ga., Oct. 28.—Bombardier Franklin E. (Gene) Abbott, formerly of Cordele, has been wounded in action in the Europe war area, according to a message received by his mother from the War Department.

Mrs. Abbott resides at Pitts. Sergeant Abbott enlisted last March and received his first training at an air base in Florida.

General Billy Mitchell's Son Dies in New York

PINE CAMP, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Lieutenant John Lendrum Mitchell, 22, son of the late Brigadier General William (Billy) Mitchell, prophet of modern aerial warfare, died last night after a three-week illness with a rare blood disease.

Mitchell entered the Army infantry about three weeks ago. Mrs. Rose McMullin, of Philadelphia, known as the "woman of the golden blood" because of her recovery from a comparatively rare streptococcus aureus, gave a transfusion last weekend.

Mitchell, a native of Washington, D. C., enlisted in 1940 at Milwaukee, where an airfield was being dedicated to the memory of his father, and was graduated from the Officers' Training School at Fort Knox last summer. He served in the Tank Corps.

Best Way To Help Hitler, Kids, Is To Romp on Halloween

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The best way to help the enemy, children, is to go out and celebrate Halloween as usual this Saturday night.

With those gentle words, Uncle Sam sorrowfully warned his juvenile nieces and nephews today that about the only way they could hobnob with the hobgoblins on the coming All Hallow's Eve was to stay at home and make faces at each other.

In Washington, they won't even be able to don masks and wander abroad this year. Dragging an old law out of the mothballs of KKK Klan days, the police department warned that masked individuals will be suspected as saboteurs and dealt with as such—boom, boom!

At the same time, high government officials who, for reasons possibly involving votes of 1955 or thereabouts, preferred not to be quoted by name, asked the country's children to remember that the old gag of letting air out of tires is nothing short of sabotage itself, this year.

Furthermore, they pointed out, ringing doorbells will ruin the sleep of many a war worker and thus slow down the flow of munitions to the fighting men.

Soaping windows is using up a war-vital material, since soap ingredients also go into high explosives. (Of course, this can be used as antibath propaganda, boys.)

Grabbing gates also is bad business, since if they can be dispensed with they should be in the scrap pile, and if not someone is going to lose plenty of war-vital hours hunting them.

Youthful Ensign Describes Convoy's Battle With Nazis

(Ensign Kenneth W. Tipping, 23, of Maywood, N. J., Princeton University '40, joined the United States Navy in May, 1941, and got his first test under fire as commanding officer of the gun crew on a United States merchant ship carrying war supplies to Soviet Russia. His own ship was torpedoed and his convoy was under constant submarine and plane attack for almost a week. Here he tells about it in a story written exclusively for the Associated Press.)

By ENSIGN KENNETH W. TIPPING, U. S. N.

A UNITED KINGDOM PORT (Delayed)—(AP)—After 5 1-2 months at sea we finally got the chance to see the Germans at close range and the experience is one we won't be quick to forget.

Our convoy was well under way and although Nazi reconnaissance planes had been circling overhead for two days, we didn't realize what was in store for us until two of our ships were suddenly torpedoed on a chill Sunday morning. The first ship to go was hit about 400 yards off our starboard bow and sank in about four minutes. I arrived on the bridge just in time to see her disappear.

Sees Ship Blasted

While facing aft, receiving the coxswain's report that the fourth gun was manned and ready, I saw a ship astern of us suddenly belch smoke and steam from amidships on the starboard side. She was hit badly and incapable of continuing, but she did not sink.

These attacks took place within ten minutes of each other at about 0900 (9 a. m.) and from that time until our own ship was sunk every one aboard was at action stations. At about 1400 (2 p. m.) we had our first visit from the airplanes, a high-level bombing attack which lasted in sporadic fashion for 45 minutes, doing no damage to the convoy.

It was a bit annoying that the planes were operating above the clouds, making it impossible to get a decent shot at them.

Things were dragging along about 1500 (3 p. m.) when suddenly one of my gun crew, Tony Lima, from Ludlow, Mass., who was on watch at the port 50-caliber machinegun, shouted: "Mister Tipping, are those planes?"

They were planes, all right, at least 40 of them coming in on the starboard bow, wing-tip to wing-tip, covering the horizon from dead ahead to broad on the beam. They were on us in a minute and when I judged they were three-quarters of a mile away I gave the command, "Open fire!"

From that point it was pretty much up to the men at the guns and they performed excellently. There were plenty of targets and they pounded away at them.

Being on the highest part of the ship, I found I was able to help the men by drawing attention, over the communications system, to targets approaching on blind-spots caused by the ship's superstructure.

The first convoy ship the Jerries got in this attack was our column leader. It went up suddenly in flames that reached 300 to 400 feet. It was fortunate that the intense activity of that moment was such that the full horror of the incident was not appreciated by the busy gunners and seamen.

Raked by Shellfire

At this point anti-aircraft fire from our escort men-of-war was cutting the sky into ribbons. Shells aimed at low-flying raiders by ships on the convoy's port side were sweeping just over the decks of our ship.

I heard machinegun bullets bouncing off our forward turrets and saw tracers going by so close it seemed as if I could reach out and catch them. I'm sure Jerry got a hotter reception than he expected and after his first mass attack he showed considerably more respect for our ability to hit back.

As the clatter of attack grew into a roar, with planes coming at us from every direction and dropping schools of torpedoes, I lost all conception of time—until we were hit. The plane that got us came in from the starboard beam and let go two torpedoes. I can look back on that moment with some consolation, though, because I am convinced we knocked down that plane. As he banked away from attack, he was caught flush in the belly by a stream of tracers from the starboard .50-caliber gun and from the .30-caliber gun on the boat deck.

CONFEIDENTIALLY, IT . . . —The typewriter has lost its lure for Sergeant James T. Edwards, as anybody can plainly see. "Tobe" Edwards was well known over the south as a sports writer and coach before "they started a bigger game over there." He enlisted in the Army Air Forces here six months ago, and yesterday was nominated for officers' training school at Miami Beach, Fla.

He never came out of that bank, but there was no time for exultation. His two tinfish hit within a few seconds of each other. One got us just about the bridge, the other crashing to the deck on the flat of my back from the force of the explosions. I raised myself quickly, but as I started to get up I was showered with water which cascaded over the bridge.

In that split second the ship had listed heavily to starboard and the raft until the men got aboard snapped, but the raft was prevented from drifting away by quick thinking of one of the naval gun crew, Stauchfield Wright, of New York city. He leaped from the ship to the raft and held it along side while the others got aboard.

We had gotten only 150 yards from the ship when, with a quiet splash, she went under. Within 15 to 20 minutes we were picked up by a British minesweeper.

Spectator in Battle. Aboard another ship the next two days I found the strain of being a spectator in battle much worse than being a participant. Survivors packed on the ship behaved admirably, however, under very trying conditions. My admiration especially went out to the wounded who did not whimper though they lay helpless with the battle raging about them.

The British escort did an extraordinarily fine piece of work, not only in retreating the convoy and in picking up survivors but in the excellent care and treatment of survivors on the way back. I have nothing but deepest respect and admiration for those men.

Where so many men are heroes few stand out, but I want to tell of one — my ship's chief officer, John Munro. He found his boat jammed in grips, with the men about unable to launch it. He cut through a stubborn four-inch line with a small sheath knife to allow the boat to be lowered. When the boat was water borne, it jammed beneath the overboard discharge and was taking water rapidly.

Munro managed to cut it away again and keep it afloat with its 20 men aboard until the minesweeper made the rescue.

Proud of Crew. I am very proud of my gun crew, everyone of whom put out his best in workmanlike, cool fashion. I am extremely thankful that no man of that crew was lost.

The gun crew: Stauchfield Wright, New York city; George Arthur Chaffin, Huntington, W. Va.; W. Patla, New Bedford, Mass.; Kenneth Moore, Portsmouth, Ohio; James Eratus King, Hawkinsville, Ga.; Morton Watson Howard, Huntington, W. Va.; John Roy Feury, Indianapolis, Ind.; Henry Matthew Jackson, Walton, W. Va.; Leo Joseph Solis, New Orleans, La.; Leo Donald Howard, Baltimore, Md.; Antonio Dias Lima, Ludlow, Mass.

It is all over now and all the men are looking forward to getting back to the States again and I'm as anxious as they are—if not more so. And there's a reason. I was married just six days before I received my orders for this duty and I have a bride and a widowed mother I am mighty anxious to see.

Tobe Edwards Ready to Enter Officer School

Former Sports Writer Wins Recognition at Miami.

By KELLER MCCARTNEY.

When James T. Edwards writes his next story, he hopes the "type-writer" will be spitting bullets at the Japanese instead of recording an exciting football or baseball game.

Sergeant Edwards—known in sports circles over the south as "Tobe Edwards"—has been nominated for officers' training. He will report within the next few days to the Army Air Forces administrative school at Miami Beach, Fla.

If he makes good at the school—and those who know Edwards don't doubt for an instant that he will—the former sports writer wants a crack at the Japs.

"I don't like the Germans . . . don't get me wrong," he hastened to explain. "But those back-knifing Japs!"

No Typewriter Game. "You can't use a typewriter on heathens like the Japs." He eyed a typewriter longingly and then shook his head vigorously.

"Too tame now. I want to be closer to where things are happening than you can get with that contraption. I want one of those sub-nosed 'typewriters' the old Chicago gangsters used to sport around. One that goes brrrrrrr."

Sergeant Edwards hates the Japs more than the Germans because the Nipponese "don't fight fair." He coached for several years and then wrote sports until he enlisted in the Air Forces six months ago, he explained.

"In sports we had a name for the contestants who couldn't play fair. It was—(censored)."

Edwards, a native of Fayetteville, enlisted in the Air Forces here six months ago. He's almost 42, and was in no danger of being drafted, for he is married and has a 7-year-old son, "Bo."

"That typewriter just got too dull," he explained. "There was a bigger game going on over there." From here he went to Keeler Field, Miss., for basic training, and for a time was in the airplane mechanics school.

News in Field. Lieutenant W. D. Tumlin, also of Atlanta, had started a daily newspaper for men at the field. Edwards was looking around for someone to continue the paper after he got transfer orders and Edwards' name "just sort of fell in his lap."

"Seemed like I just couldn't get away from the news business," Edwards declared.

On July 21, he went to St. Petersburg, Fla., and on August 6 was transferred to Clearwater. He received notice yesterday that he had been nominated for officer training.

Graduated from Georgia Tech in 1922, Edwards went to Milligan College, near Johnson City, Tenn., as athletic director and head coach. One of his proteges, Stumpy Thomason, came to Tech and scored the winning touchdown for Tech over California in the Rose Bowl game of 1928.

Another Protege. Another of his "boys," Dale Alexander, played professional baseball in the Southern League for several years and then established a batting record in the American League with the Boston Red Sox.

"That boy could kick 'em just as far as he hit 'em, too," Edwards recalled. Edwards then drifted from coaching into sports writing. He served as sports editor of the Knoxville Journal for a couple of years and then returned to Atlanta as sports writer on the old Georgian-American. He worked in the sports department of The Constitution, and also contributed many "free-lance" articles on sports and other subjects.

He was coach of the Monroe Aggies when they won the state high school football championship in 1938 and coached the Aggies' state baseball championship team in 1939.

Two of his "Monroe boys" are playing with the University of Georgia and two others are with Tech. Walter Rooks and Van Davis are regulars with the Bulldogs and Tommy Anderson and Jack Lance are at Tech.

Wasp Victim at Home, Keeps Mum on Sinking

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—(AP) Mrs. Vincent Previti knows now her husband can keep a secret—even from her.

Previti was a chief machinist's mate on the aircraft carrier Wasp when it was mortally damaged September 15 by Japanese torpedoes off the Solomon islands. He was home nearly a month before his wife learned the carrier had been sunk.

Her source of information was a newspaper account.

More Than One Submarine Attacked Wasp, Says Survivor

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 28.—(AP) Electrician's Mate Elbert Jackson Edwards Jr., of Clio, Ala., expressed the belief here that more than one submarine attacked the United States aircraft carrier Wasp near Guadalcanal September 15, and that one or more of the raiders was blasted to the bottom. The 22-year-old sailor said he was knocked about 20 feet by the shock of the first torpedo that struck. Two more torpedoes hit the carrier about 30 seconds apart, he related. "I hit the water and swam for about 10 minutes before finding a raft," Edwards declared. "About an hour later a destroyer picked us up."

Edwards, who is visiting his sister, Mrs. W. E. Hawkins, of Phenix City, Ala., said "most of our planes were off the carrier when she was hit, and we have reasons to believe that a good portion of them found another carrier on which to land." He also expressed the belief that most of the men aboard the Wasp were saved.

Huiet on Stand Denies Knowledge Of Campaign Fund

Ben T. Huiet, state commissioner of labor, yesterday took the witness stand in his own behalf in his trial along with J. E. B. Stewart and Marion A. O'Connor, former labor department executives, on conspiracy charges.

His testimony consisted mainly of a series of denials of any connection with the campaign fund for his re-election in 1940 which departmental employees had testified was being raised. In fact, he said that he told a group of his subordinates not to raise any money for a campaign fund.

Launching into a denial of the testimony of Miss Mildred Holland, former stenographer in the department who testified that Huiet removed her from the state pay roll and told her he was putting her to work in the campaign where she would be paid from funds contributed by department employees, Huiet declared he

WLB Handles Stabilization Up to $5,000

One of Ten Field Offices Will Be Opened in Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Four government agencies acted swiftly today to set up nation-wide wage and salary controls in accordance with a sweeping order limiting net salaries to $25,000 and banning all pay raises or decreases not in accordance with regulations.

Treasury officials went into hurried conferences on the task assigned them by James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, and indicated they would announce tomorrow how they would go about limiting salaries to a maximum of $25,000 after deduction of federal income taxes, customary charitable contributions, life insurance premiums and fixed obligations. The Treasury also will control payments to lower-salaried executive and professional personnel.

The War Labor Board, handed the job of stabilizing all wages and most salaries up to $5,000, said it would have a far-flung system of information centers in operation in 10 to 15 days so that employers may know whether any pay raises or cuts they propose to make can safely be made without prior approval of the government.

(Fines up to $1,000 and imprisonment up to one year are possible penalties for infraction of the pay regulations. In addition, government agencies will rule out any outlawed wage payment when they come to figure an employer's income tax liabilities, and will work on government contracts or price ceilings on his products.)

The plan for processing thousands of inquiries and applications every day calls for extensive coordination between WLB and existing regional offices of the Wage-Hour Administration and with the U. S. Conciliation Service. Wage-Hour field offices will have the job of answering inquiries from employers and employees and of helping prepare applications for wage and salary increases.

Regional wage-hour administrators were called to Washington for conferences tomorrow to familiarize them with board procedure. Board officials emphasized that the Wage-Hour offices were not equipped now with information or personnel to answer inquiries and probably would not be so equipped for ten days or more.

Machinery Functioning. When the machinery is functioning the employees will be able to learn from their nearest Wage-Hour office whether they are exempt; that is, whether they may give an individual or blanket wage or salary increase without applying to the board for approval. Certain exemptions have been set up, such as the employer of eight or less workers, provided price ceilings are not affected.

Other exemptions are "individual promotions or reclassifications, individual merit increases within established salary ranges, operation of an established plan of salary increases based on length of service, increased productivity under incentive plans, and operation of a trainee system or such other reasons or circumstances as may be prescribed."

"When the employer wants to know whether his own specific cases fall within these exemptions, he can get the answer from the Wage-Hour office. If it is determined that a wage or salary increase would be illegal without approval, the Wage-Hour office will help in the preparation of an application which goes to one of the War Labor Board's regional offices. The board will open 10 such offices within the next two or three weeks, located at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City,

San Francisco, Denver or Dallas.

The regional director in most cases may be able to pass upon the application without substantial delay. If there is a dispute of any kind and a conciliator can settle it, the case will be referred to local panels of three persons representing industry, labor and the public. If the panel's decision is unanimous, it will be final. If one member of the panel dissents and wishes to appeal, the War Labor Board in Washington will take the case and rule on it.

In applying for approval of wage or salary increases, the employer must state whether price ceilings would be affected and whether his employees are represented by a union. Where price ceilings are involved, an opinion will be sought from the Office of Price Administration which will get copies of all applications. Where there is a union, its officers will be notified and the union will have an opportunity of joining in the application or objecting to it in the event it finds the proposed increase inadequate, the information inaccurate, or for other reasons.

Board officials said they were preparing informative statements designed to provide a blanket answer for many of the typical questions which wage and salary regulations have raised.

Cobb To Open School For Bell Plant Help

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 28.—November 2 has been set as the date for the opening of Cobb county training school for Bell Bomber plant workers, county officials announced.

The school will be operated by the Cobb County Board of Education under the supervision of the vocational department of the State Department of Education. Daniel W. Dobbins, of Marietta, will be in charge of training.

Present plans call for evening classes to begin November 2 with workers being trained on two shifts. Classes will meet Mondays through Fridays for an eight-week period.

Daytime classes begin December 1 and will be held from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Mondays through Fridays, the course again covering an eight-week period.

Both men and women are eligible.

Seafood Dealer Ruled Outside Wage-Hour Act

Judge Underwood Issues Opinion, Affecting Possibly 20,000.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood in an opinion yesterday held that a wholesale seafood dealer was exempt from provisions of the wage-hour act.

The ruling was described by attorneys as having far-reaching effect on 20,000 or more seafood dealers.

The ruling was in a case filed by Charles R. Johnson and eight other employees against Johnson & Company, Inc., Atlanta seafood dealers.

After hearing a motion by the defense for summary judgment about a month ago, Judge Underwood took the case under advisement. He sustained the motion yesterday and in his opinion construed the wage-hour act in support of the judgment.

The original act exempts those engaged in shore operation of the seafood industry. Judge Underwood in his opinion held that the congressional intent was to go beyond the area of production and include all seafood dealers.

Vast Pipe Line To Begin Flow By 1st of June lief that the lengthy line would ease at least some of the seaboard's civilian petroleum shortages next summer.

Locks said the primary function of the line was to "insure adequate petroleum supplies for our armed forces, the United Nations, war production, and the basic needs of civilian transportation and health."

Actual construction of the segment east of Norris City awaits only completion of the first leg, since the same line will be shifted from the west link to the extension, officials said.

Due to dump the crude oil into the heart of the Bayonne, N. J., refining area, the entire line is expected to cost approximately $95,000,000.

Nelson's announcement today climaxed months of controversy over the transportation-born shortages which developed as Axis U-boats took an increasing heavy toll of the tankers which normally plied between the Texas Gulf coast and the nation's eastern seaboard. As additional ships were shifted to other wartime duties, an effort was made to fill the gap through rail transportation and Washington rang with debates as to whether other phases of the war effort could spare the steel needed for the pipeline.

CONSTIPATION with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling may often result when your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stir up liver bile secretion to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TODAY! Without fail! Follow label directions. 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

WPB Freezing Of Newsprint Expected Soon

Present Paper Mill Output Is Seen as Limit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A WPB spokesman said today that within "the next few days" the War Production Board will freeze output of newsprint and other paper at approximately present levels.

He also said that W. G. Chandler, general manager of Scripps-Howard newspapers, New York city, was "being considered" for appointment as chief of the printing and publishing branch of WPB.

The spokesman, in the WPB information division, said the paper mill freeze now planned would put a ceiling on production at the rate of some recent base period.

This represents a change from plans of earlier in the month, when a 10 per cent cut under the rate of August and September had tentative WPB approval.

An official told reporters a production freeze was inevitable because of power, transportation and electricity shortages, but he did not reveal the expected date or the probable production rate.

He warned, however, that "the freeze will not be the end of curtailment."

The Canadian government was expected to follow the United States action with a similar restriction on paper manufacturing.

Britons Say U. S. Doesn't Realize Need

Federal Jury Disagrees In Whisky Case Here

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—(AP)—American war production failed to impress a couple British labor leaders stopping in Cleveland today on a tour of some of the nation's war plants.

"I can't say I was impressed with the speed and production generally," Jack Tanner, president of the Amalgamated Engineers Union, said in an interview.

"The plants are new, well laid out, finely equipped, but there doesn't seem to be appreciation for the urgent need of turning out these munitions of war as rapidly as possible."

"They are not working as fast as they are in England."

Tanner's companion, Secretary Arthur Bryan Roberts, of the National Union of Public Employees, shared these views which the two British unionists said were based on visits to war plants in several cities.

Whether Alvin Edward Reagin, of Rockdale county, actually possessed 10 gallons of untaxed whisky is still in doubt, following disagreement of a federal jury here early last night.

Reagin, indicted on charges of violating the internal revenue liquor laws, was tried yesterday before the jury which could not agree. His case will be brought into court again before a new jury, it was said.

Mrs. Woolfolk Dies in Albany

Mrs. Virginia H. Woolfolk, mother of W. W. Woolfolk, director of the Atlanta Boys' Club, died Tuesday in Albany, it was learned here yesterday.

Besides her son, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. S. G. Bramer, of Albany, and Mrs. A. C. Moore, of Columbus, and four other sons, R. G. Woolfolk, of Baton Rouge, La.; R. M. Woolfolk, of Lincoln, Neb.; and J. W. and J. H. Woolfolk, of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Hatchecubbee Methodist church, near Columbus.

DEATH BUS DRIVER—William F. Clos, 25, Detroit street railway bus driver, was at the wheel of the crowded bus when it was struck by a passenger train in Detroit yesterday. Sixteen persons were killed in the crash and 25 were hospitalized, many seriously injured.

16 Killed, 25 Hurt As Train Slices Detroit Bus in Half

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were killed and more than a score injured, several critically, today when a Detroit street railways motorbus, jammed to its doors with school children, office workers and factory employees, was ripped in two by a passenger train.

The bus halted at the Caniff avenue crossing of the grand trunk Western Railroad to permit a northbound freight train to pass, then moved directly into the path of a southbound passenger train.

Bodies Scattered.

The locomotive of the Chicago-Detroit train sliced through the rear end of the bus, hurled the front end to one side, scattered bodies along the right of way for two blocks and ground to a stop a quarter mile away with the bodies of six youths mangled against the front of its boiler.

Suburban Hamtramck police took into custody for questioning the bus driver, William F. Clos, 25, who has been a regular motor coach operator for two years. Fred A. Nolan, general manager of the municipally owned DSR transportation system, said the accident was the worst in the system's history. Mayor Edward J. Jeffries ordered a complete investigation.

Vision Obscured.

Marie Giles, 21, a passenger seated directly behind the bus driver, told how standing riders obscured his vision.

"There was a car ahead of the bus," she said. "When the freight train cleared, this car started across. The bus driver asked the people jammed against the front door if everything was clear. He could not see for himself; the bus was too crowded. The people said 'all clear' and he started across. 'All of a sudden I saw the train coming. Then there was a nightmare. I don't know how I got out alive.'"

A graphic picture of the scene was given by Joseph Levinsky, watchman in a railroad tower at the intersection.

Whistle Screaming.

"The bus was westbound and had stopped for the red flasher signals," he said. "The freight, northbound, cleared the crossing. 'The red flasher lights were still working. The passenger train was coming fast, southbound, with the engine whistle screaming. I saw this bus start up. I knew it would do no good, but I leaned out of the tower and yelled. I yelled my head off. The bus went right in the path of the train and there was an awful splintering crash; and then screams."

Some bodies were decapitated; limbs were severed from others; several were almost beyond identification even as to sex.

More than 25 persons were admitted to hospitals for treatment. The accident happened in suburban Hamtramck, so close to the Detroit city limits that the front end of the bus, tossed aside by the train, was hurled against a coal company office in Detroit. Most of the passengers killed had been riding in the rear of the bus.

Christian Resting Well After Two Transfusions

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A doctor's bulletin on the condition of King Christian X of Denmark, seriously ill from pneumonia after a fall from his horse 10 days ago, said he was resting well today after two blood transfusions given during the night.

The King's strength and appetite were described as good. His temperature, however, was 100.7, and his pulse rate 66.

By royal decree, the King has turned the conduct of the government over to his son, Crown Prince Frederick, for the duration of his illness.

ALEXANDER CRASH DENIED.

Nation Faces Health Crisis, Pepper Says

'Unplanned Recruiting' of Doctors Is Called 'Foolish, Dangerous.'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The "unplanned recruiting" of doctors for the armed services has led the nation to "a dangerous health emergency," a senate subcommittee charged today in calling for immediate action to assure medical care for civilians as well as soldiers.

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, as chairman of the labor subcommittee on manpower, issued the report asserting that there had been "a tremendous unnecessary over-militarization of the doctor supply at the expense of the civilian population" and that "the nation has been fortunate to have avoided serious local or even national epidemics to date."

Figures of Report. "If the information supplied this committee is accurate," the report said, "approximately one-third of the medical effectiveness of the country are now in the armed forces. 'According to the information received by the committee the military services desire to maintain their present ratio of approximately one doctor for every 100 men in service.'"

If that ratio is continued, the report declared, two out of three doctors will be in military service next year and there will be an average of only one doctor for each 3,000 civilians, contrasted with a national average of about one to 1,100 before the war.

"In some counties in the southern states, hitherto fairly well supplied with physicians, there is now only one doctor for 7,000 individuals," it continued.

'Foolish' Methods. The report charged that "foolish and dangerous" methods used to recruit physicians for military service had resulted in "hoarding and freezing unused doctors in the American armed forces in a ratio double that of the British."

"The conditions are so acute and dangerous," Pepper's report said, "that this preliminary report is made public with the recommendation that at the earliest possible moment the following steps should be taken:

"The President, as commander in chief, should order a survey to be made of over-supply and under-supply of medical personnel for both the armed forces and civilian needs.

"A reallocation should be made wherever it is determined an over-supply or under-supply exists. "Instruction should be given to the War Manpower Commission to cease its procurement drive for doctors in all states where quotas have already been attained."

The committee expressed the belief that a civilian agency should be set up to supervise the recruiting of physicians.

The report declared that ill-supplied rural regions are contributing from two to four times the proportion of military doctors that are coming from urban areas—a condition which it declared would be conducive toward a general epidemic similar to the wave of influenza which swept the country in 1918.

Slow Up on Doctors, Army Is Urged

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Army was urged by a federal health official today to slow up the drain on civilian doctors until they are actually needed on the fighting fronts.

This is necessary as a safeguard to the health of the folks at home, declared Charles P. Taft, assistant director of defense health and welfare service, in an address before the American Public Health Association convention.

"We are approaching the point," he asserted in a discussion of the rate at which the armed services are taking doctors from American communities, "where the Army will have to work out a system under which their tables of organization will not actually be filled until their units approach the front line action that requires that number of doctors."

Dr. H. S. Osborne To Speak Tonight

Get "on the beam!"

Are you puzzled? Like lots of fellows who are asking themselves questions about Fall clothes—what they'll get—how to make their dollars click? As usual, the big majority are turning to Bond's for the answers—because more men wear Bond clothes than any other clothes in America. Our smiling friend here knows why. How about you?

Can I still get warm all-wool clothes that'll stand up?

You're tootin' right you can. Virgin wool is all you'll see here. And a suit that should outlive the war is what you'll get.

I'm a crank about tailoring—how about it?

Shake, mister—we're cranks, too. Only top needle specialists work in our shops. That's why your Bond suit holds its shape so much longer.

And how about my size—I'm hard to fit?

This one's a cinch. With Bond's huge line-up of 81 different sizes and models on deck, fitting troubles fly out the window.

What about a Charge Account—can I have one?

Yes indeed, sir. Charge Account or Budget Service as you wish—and you pay nothing extra for this convenience, at Bond's.

Is it unpatriotic to buy new clothes now?

"Keep punching", says Uncle Sam. Seedy appearance blasts morale. So fill your needs—demand peak quality—exercise good old Yankee thrift.

And what's going to happen to the old bankroll?

You'll like this. In 34 years, Bond suit prices have changed exactly once—and then only a tiny 2%. Yes, that's all—2%! Maybe that's why we've so many loyal friends. Well, we're not using the war as an excuse to let them down now. And there's your answer to one of today's big problems—how to stretch your dollars!

Armistice Day Celebration Plans Are Laid

American Legion Given Permit To Sponsor Parade.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday granted a parade permit to Atlanta American Legion Post No. 1 as Legion officials made plans for one of the greatest Armistice Day celebrations ever held in this city.

The parade will form at 11:30 o'clock in the morning, Wednesday, November 11, and will move down Peachtree and Whitehall streets to Hunter street, then Central avenue, the disbanding point.

Ralph Black will be marshal of the day. Details of the program will be completed in the next few days, it was said.

The United States Treasury Department has asked the Legion to sponsor war bond sales in November, and Black said the Armistice Day observance will be especially impressive this year, since "the nation is engaged in another struggle to preserve American ideals and the American way of life."

ident that our quota will be passed."

This division reported $6,366 in pledges for the first day. Mayor Hartsfield, who has accepted the personal leadership of the city employees section of the Public Employees Division, declared that Atlanta, against a background of total war, owed success in the appeal to the community and to each individual.

"I hope and pray that we can all continue to be on the giving end of such a community enterprise," he said. "There are things at stake in the world today that affect our whole future. We have got to do our part at home."

"This year we can succeed. There is more money in this community than ever before. There is an ability to give and a willingness to give. The rest is up to the individual workers. We have got to see every person and give him the opportunity to participate."

The second report meeting will be held at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Athletic Club.

Paroled Convict Christy Repudiates Confession

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Vincent J. Christy, 37, paroled convict, today repudiated his confession to the murder of four Miami men last July 17 and named an acquaintance, Hymie Cohen, as the slayer.

Taking the stand at his trial for murder, Christy admitted having signed the confession to the quadruple slaying, but said he did so "because I wanted to go to the electric chair—for the simple reason that I would rather burn than go back to prison" to complete the term from which he was paroled.

3 Youths Held In Roundup of Crime 'Wave'

Trio Admits, Stripping Autos in Northeast Section.

Police believe they have broken up a crime wave in the northeast section of Atlanta with the arrest of three teen-aged Negroes.

Radio Patrolmen M. J. Price and A. C. Roberts arrested the first of the trio early yesterday morning in front of 327 Fourth street, N. E., as he started driving away in a car without turning on the lights.

Listed as Louis Jefferson, 16, of a Merritts avenue address, the youth admitted stealing the car, police reports showed. He also told of participating in several car-stripping raids and burglaries in that section.

After questioning Jefferson, officers arrested Willie Griffin, 16, also of a Merritts avenue address,

Marine Corps Will Get Unit, Of 'Marinettes'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of Navy personnel, said today the United States Marine Corps, as well as the Coast Guard, plans to enlist women.

Names mentioned for the proposed new groups were "Marinettes" for Marine women enlistees and "Warcogs" (Women's Auxiliary Reserve of the Coast Guards) for Coast Guard women enlistees, Admiral Jacobs said. He added that women will be accepted for both divisions as apprentice seamen, trained in naval schools and assigned to the Marines or Coast Guard for service in the United States only.

DIES—Miss "Bee" Shelnutt, popular Atlantan, who died yesterday at a hospital here.

gave these bits of information about the Military Commission's secret trial of the saboteurs: There were a "great number" of charges. The eight were tried at the same time, and all testified. There was no jury. One of the witnesses was Mrs. Erna Haupt, mother of Herbert Haupt, one of the saboteurs.

Mrs. Haupt, a defendant in the current trial, wept when her son's ring was identified by Burger today.

Asked if he knew what happened to young Haupt, Burger replied:

"I understand he gave his life for his country."

In a query as to what country he meant prompted Burger, who once lived in Detroit and Milwaukee, to state: "I meant my own country—Germany."

The defendants, accused of assisting young Haupt, are his parents, Hans and Erna Haupt; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Froehling, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Richard Wergin. They have pleaded innocence.

City Urged To Put Fund Over

set their sights too low. In the United States Marines, you learn that when you set your sights too low all you do is kick up some dirt.

Wonders at Failure.

I don't know why a city with as magnificent a record as Atlanta in everything else should have failed even once in this. Maybe Atlanta's "big men" did not set a proper example in the beginning. Maybe the rest of us who aren't so fortunate followed the example. I have learned some figures that startled me. All that these selfless Atlantans are asking this great city to give is $635,000 for the relief of suffering for the building of character; two of the greatest causes in humanity's name since Christ came to this earth.

1941 Goal Short.

The cold facts and figures show that last year 3,493 employees in 12 Atlanta firms gave only 11 cents apiece to cover the entire year. They were not alone. Their fellow workers in other fields of business here in Atlanta gave from 5 cents to $2 a year as their "helping hand" to those in need.

Could you call this their sacrifice?

The cold facts before me show that if every man and woman with a job today in the Atlanta area offered by the Community Fund gave one day's pay to cover their gifts for the whole year this fund would go over the top so high it would look like a pole vault.

Many Atlantans with whom I have talked have asked me: "Why is there a need for more money this year than last year?" But from those who are devoting days of their own time unselfishly in an effort to raise this fund I get these other cold facts and figures: The 1941 fund fell $100,000 short of its goal.

This year the fund only asks $10,000 more than it asked last year.

This year, for the first time, the Y. M. C. A. is included in the Community Fund budget. And $16,000 of the Y. M. C. A. item in the budget is for the care of service men. Any man who ever wore a uniform knows what it is to have a place like the Y. M. C. A. to help him and to buck him up when he is in a strange city.

Charity Costs Rise.

The cost of living, according to United States government figures has risen nearly 15 per cent. That means that every charity and character-building organization in Atlanta supported by this fund has seen its costs of operation rise by that much, too.

Because of the war several additional day nurseries are a life-and-death need in Atlanta. The father is in the Army, the Navy, the Marines, the Coast Guard. The mother is doing a man's job to keep business and the war effort rolling. Ask yourself the simple question: How are the children of these families going to be given the care children must have if the next generation is to grow up into sound and healthy American men and women. Ask yourself if Atlanta wants any part of this tragedy of childhood that England now knows all too well.

England's Problem.

England did not have a chance to plan ahead. Atlanta has that chance. The British government itself tells the world today that while England has suffered 72 per cent of all the casualties of the Allied Nations, their greatest loss is the British home. Countless English children, they tell us, practically live in the streets. They have no father or mother at hand to guide them. The result has been tragic. The "bad boy" and "bad girl" problem in England has increased more than 100 per cent because of this.

Atlanta is growing faster than ever. There are 100,000 more Atlantans than there were 19 years ago when this fund was started. There will be scores of thousands if not hundreds of thousands more by the time the war effort is in full blast.

Daily we read of the battlefronts all over the world. But right here in Atlanta is the homefront. If the homefront breaks and crumbles everything for which our boys on the battlefront are fighting is lost.

Nobody ever heard of a rich Marine. But I am betting my paycheck on you, Atlanta. Are you going to let me lose?

Two War Helmets Hit Salvage Heap

Two war helmets, one American and one German, will be added to the office scrap heap at The Constitution.

They were donated yesterday by Mrs. Julia Varndoe, of 130 South Candler road, Decatur, who has prized the helmets since 1918. She received them from her nephew, Rufus Varndoe, when he returned from World War I.

"I hope these two helmets will be made into American war tools to finish the job my nephew and the other soldiers began," Mrs. Varndoe said.

SUBMARINE FIRED ON.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Brazilian Navy ministry said today the armed Brazilian merchantman Rio Branco fired at and possibly hit a submarine near the British island of Saint Vincent, one of the Windward group on the eastern rim of the Caribbean sea. The date of the action was not disclosed.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calem!—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sick and the world looks punk. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

Wounded Fortress Crewmen Fight Off Nazi Attackers

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—"Followed formation." Thus First Lieutenant Clare M. Smart, of Cookeville, Tenn., scribbled his report on the operational form sheet after participating in the recent Flying Fortress raid on Lorient.

But he didn't begin to tell the story. Intelligence officers took one look at his plane and crew and fired questions.

Smart made a perfect bombing run and his bombs burst on the target, although the glass in the ball turret and the turret door were shot away, one-third of the left elevator was blown off, the left wing flap was hit and blossomed out from wind pressure, seven out of 13 guns were out of commission as a result of enemy fire and a number of the crew was injured.

Hot Spot.

The crew was on the hot spot near the rear of the formation, headed by Colonel Joseph Atkinson, of Dalhart, Texas, and Major Thomas, of Pomona, Cal., when a swarm of yellow-nosed Focke-Wulf 190s jumped it over the coast of France.

Three enemy fighters bore down on them and Sergeant James M. Abbott, of Geneva, Ala., the ball turret gunner, gave them the works. One plane began smoking and plunged away, out of control.

In that moment a shell exploded near the ball turret put the left gun out of action and damaged the turret.

Other gunners, meantime, were just as busy. The top turret gunner, Staff Sergeant Ermando T. Roviaro, of Chicago, engaged another formation and saw one plane fall away.

In the tail Sergeant Henry Wojciechowski, of Cleveland, said his second crash in flames, though he had only one gun left and was wounded in the arm and leg.

Dual Control.

After coming through the fighting, Smart and his copilot, First Lieutenant J. D. J. Burke, of Columbus, Ohio, kept the crippled Fortress in formation by using their combined strength on the controls.

"They did the job, those two," First Lieutenant R. J. Granthaus, of Indianapolis, Ind., the bombardier, said. "They did everything any two pilots could do and got us to the target and when we got there they gave me a perfectly controlled bombing run. I saw my bombs burst directly on the target. It was as sweet a show as I ever hope to be in on."

On the 300-mile trip back the two pilots continued to wrestle with the controls, while their battered gunners stuck to their posts, fighting off incessant attacks. Wojciechowski, fearing loss of consciousness from lack of blood, yielded the tail guns to Staff Sergeant J. J. Drougas, of Zanesville, Ohio, radio operator. He fought without an oxygen mask because his was shot up and he did not have time to adjust a spare while fighting the Germans.

Gunner Wounded.

The waist gunner, Sergeant F. J. Nichols, of Scranton, Pa., was wounded in the first attack, but did not leave his post.

Sergeant W. C. Boggs, of Morgantown, W. Va., radio gunner, was shot in the stomach.

Wojciechowski later manned the waist gun until he fell unconscious. Roviaro carried on in the freezing cold without glass in the turret.

There also was plenty to do for extra gunner First Lieutenant J. S. Ross, of Arkansas City, Ark.

As Smart neared the English coast the fighting ceased. Granthaus and First Lieutenant A. J. Dreiszewski, of Kansas City, Mo., navigator, then administered first aid.

Said Wojciechowski at the hospital: "The ship was all shot to hell, but we gave as good and better than we got."

Priority Rights Revoked for 6 Power Works

Section of Coulee Dam Included in Move by WPB.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The War Production Board revoked priority ratings today for six power and irrigation projects in the west, including a section of the Grand Coulee Dam, in line with its policy of curtailing the use of critical materials in construction projects.

Five of the projects are sponsored by the Bureau of Reclamation, the other involving Grand Coulee. Builders are prohibited, beginning immediately, from continuing construction or installation on the projects.

An exception is made, however, for construction solely for the purpose of safety or health, or to avoid undue damage or deterioration of materials.

In such cases the stop date is November 15, unless special authorization should be given for an extension.

Labor Census Is Urged by Cordele Judge

Judge Gower Warns That Manpower May Soon Be Conscripited.

CORDELE, Ga., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Crisp county grand jury was directed by Superior Court Judge O. T. Gower to make a manpower census of the county to ascertain the available supply of workers and the number needed to meet war production needs on farms and in industry.

Judge Gower said in his charge that "very soon a conscription of manpower nationally will be at hand. In order to be able to act intelligently on the direct problems here in our county, it is necessary that we get together the information on the needs in this section immediately so that we can make them known when such conscriptions are made."

The county agent, manager of the United States Employment Service, and other leaders of agencies were requested to aid the grand jury in the survey.

A fine of $1,000 was recently imposed by Judge Gower on a labor solicitor, charged with attempted removal of Negro farm workers from the county for a New Jersey company.

Southeast Defense Mobilization Is Big Job of Sollace Mitchell

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles dealing with the men whose unusual wartime jobs affect the lives of all Americans.)

By BETTY MATHIS.

The organizing force behind the efficient civilian defense organizations in the towns and cities and rural sections of the southeast is Sollace Mitchell, a native of Jacksonville, who serves as regional chief of the civilian mobilization.

His job, as defined by Mitchell, is "the mobilization of every man, woman and child for total war effort." It is the mobilization of people to be assigned to protective services in civilian defense (air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen and policemen, etc.) and to other war programs operated under the supervision of the Citizens' Service Corps, a new civilian defense activity which will co-ordinate the activities of various volunteer groups in the war effort.

New Block Plan.

"We supply manpower for civilian war services, rather than operate the programs," he said.

At present he is engaged in the new labor block plan for civilian mobilization. Under the new set-up such wartime duties as paying a personal call on every household in America to relay instructions regarding rationing, defense precautions or whatever information the government feels every citizen should possess will be handled by civilian defense volunteers.

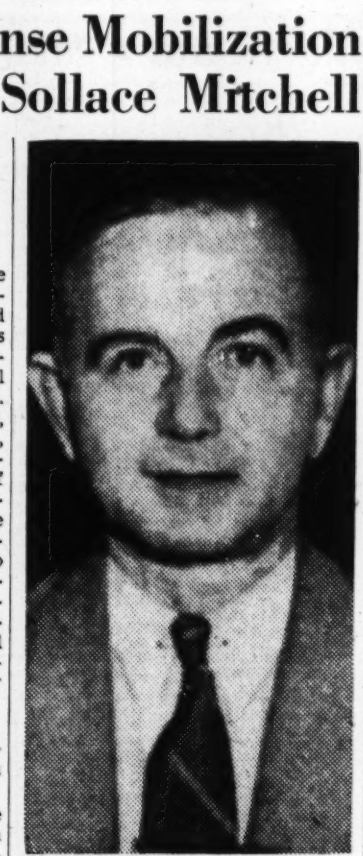

This method can be used to promote the salvage program and bond sales. "It is the quickest way to get all government programs over," Mitchell said.

Defense Office.

The Atlanta civilian defense volunteer office is a recruiting station for all types of war jobs, Mitchell explained. Throughout the southeastern region, which is made up of Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, it is Mitchell's job to do the gigantic organizing job which will result in having the right number of civilian volunteers available for the varied tasks they will be asked to perform.

Under his supervision are four field workers who work directly with the volunteer offices and with the more than 1,000,000 volunteers in the region. A graduate of Hotchkiss school and Harvard University, Mitchell served with the Marines in World War I, but did not go overseas. He was in the mortgage loan, bond and real estate business in Jacksonville until becoming assistant manager of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Florida in 1938.

He became a regional official of OGD on March 1, 1942. He married the former Miss Marion Adams, of Jacksonville, and makes his home here at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Woman Held On 'Suspicion Of Bigamy'

Married to Two Men, Her Mother-in-Law Complains.

Mrs. Grace Nations, 28, of 432 Pryor street, S. W., who was arrested yesterday on a "suspicion of bigamy" charge, will be turned over today to Cobb county authorities, Detective S. C. Dillingham said last night.

The woman was arrested after a complaint by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Whitcamp, of 443 Pryor street, that Mrs. Nations was legally married to two men.

Mrs. Nations admitted to police she was married to Bradley Kirkland on October 2, 1933, and without divorcing Kirkland, she was married a few years later to Sam Newman, who died, Detective Dillingham said.

Mrs. Nations was married on June 11, 1939, at Marietta, to Cecil Nations, a son of Mrs. Whitcamp. "I didn't intend doing anything wrong," Dillingham quoted Mrs. Nations as saying. "Some lawyer told me that if you stayed separated from a man a certain number of years you didn't have to get a divorce in court. I thought he knew."

Dillingham said whether or not the charges were pressed would be up to Cobb county authorities, since the marriage in 1939 was in Marietta.

Atlanta Hotels Jam-Full For Big Grid Game

Very but The Constitution's phone kept ringing with the query "Where, oh, tell me where, can I get tickets to the game—at any price?"

That song usually had the refrain: "My boss is coming in unexpectedly and I've got to get him tickets and a hotel room—Where, O, tell me where?"

And the hotel managers answered with this chorus: "There's not a room to be had, for love or money. But if I get a cancellation Saturday morning I'll let you know."

One hotel man said he had just committed business suicide or nearabout it.

"One of the officials of the company that owns this hotel just wanted a room Saturday night," he wailed. "I didn't have a single one!"

And another asserted: "I've already turned down more than 500 requests for reservations for Friday and Saturday. I had to send one of the best friends I ever had all the way to Rome to get a room with a bath."

The Atlanta hotel men referred hundreds of football fans to hotels in Athens, Gainesville and Rome, and said the hotels in those cities, each many miles from Grant Field, will be filled before game time.

Midnight Shows.

Midnight shows are going to run at the Fox and Capitol theaters and of course there will be the usual bustling, lusty crowd downtown, milling the streets, blowing horns and wearing scary masks denoting its harvest time in Georgia.

Those paddles little boys use so effectively on any appropriate place they find, no matter whose it is, will be in evidence too. Chief M. A. Hornsby has warned them and asked that no pranks that damage be done. He urges everyone to spend a quiet Halloween to conserve vital materials, such as tires and gas.

Victory in War Only Ambition Of MacArthur

No Political Aspirations Whatever, Commander of Pacific Says.

By C. YATES McDANIEL.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Thursday, Oct. 29.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur today disavowed that he had any "political ambitions whatsoever" and said that "the only hope and ambition I have in the world is for victory for our cause in the war."

He issued a statement to this effect in commenting on newspaper reports quoting the Washington correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor that "political Washington was largely responsible for the establishment of two separate commands in the Pacific, partly because of the conservative opposition which launched the MacArthur-for-President campaign."

"I started as a soldier and I shall finish as one," MacArthur said. "If I survive the campaign, I shall return to that retirement from which this great struggle called me."

Australian Effort.

He also denied reports that Australian war effort was not being pushed as it should be.

His statement said: "No nation in the world is making a more supreme war effort than Australia. It is rapidly growing to full capacity. Its resources are relatively meager, but it is utilizing them to the utmost. Its effort is universal and embraces equally all classes and all parties."

"It has unanimously and completely supported me in my military command and the harmony and co-operation between Australians and Americans in this area are inspirational."

"Such internal party differences as exist are largely based upon the desire of one group or the other to accelerate rather than retard the war potential."

"I am deeply grateful for their magnificent spirit of friendship and understanding without which it would have been difficult to go on."

Notes Press Reports.

"I have noted the statement quoted in morning papers from the Christian Science Monitor's Washington correspondent that 'political Washington was largely responsible for the establishment of two separate commands in the Pacific, partly because of the conservative opposition which launched the MacArthur-for-President campaign.'"

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. Any suggestion to the contrary must be regarded as merely amiable gestures of goodwill dictated by friendship. I started as a soldier and I shall finish as one. The only hope and ambition I have in the world is for victory for our cause in the war. If I survive the campaign, I shall return to that retirement from which this great struggle called me."

There have been various suggestions in the United States that MacArthur might be a likely candidate for the presidency in 1944 or later. This was the first time that MacArthur had referred to these suggestions.

With regard to divided command in the Pacific, demands have been heard in congress that the whole Pacific area be placed under one officer.

In a recent speech in the house Representative Costello, Democrat, California, deplored the arrangement under which one man, MacArthur, is given command over Australia, and another, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commands much of the rest of the Pacific.

However, Secretary of War Stimson declared a few days ago that there has been the closest co-operation between the Nimitz and Australian commands.

Stimson told his press conference last Thursday that responsibilities of command in the Pacific were "well fixed and thoroughly understood."

Allied Bombers Hit 2 Jap Ships at Rabaul

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Thursday, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Allied bombers hit two Jap ships in the harbor at Rabaul, on New Britain Island northeast of New Guinea and also bombed Buka, island at the northern tip of the Solomon archipelago, the Allied high command announced today.

A resumption was reported of the Allied ground offensive, pushing the Japs back toward their advance base at Kokoda from which they unsuccessfully tried to drive over the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea to Port Moresby.

A Three Days' Cough is Your Danger Signal

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Children Asked To Construct Model Planes

U. S. Aircraft Project Seeks 2,610 From Students in State.

Georgia school children have been asked to construct 2,610 model airplanes this school year as their contribution to the model aircraft project sponsored by the United States Office of Education and the Bureau of Aeronautics, Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, announced yesterday.

The models are used to teach Army and Navy personnel how to identify different types of planes, estimate gun range, and determine "cones of fire" of planes. They are also used in training civilian airplane spotters.

The project began last year when Georgia's allotment was 180 sets of 50 planes each. This year's allotment is 87 sets of 30 models each, most of which are new types requested by the Bureau of Aeronautics.

On the basis of reports from 25 states participating in last year's program, Dr. Collins said 284,712 model planes had been approved by local inspection committees and shipped to receiving centers.

OWI Appoints Successors To Paul C. Smith

James Allen and George Lyon To Handle Press Relations' Posts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Office of War Information announced today that James Allen and George Lyon would take over the duties of Paul C. Smith, who resigned as assistant director of domestic operations and chief of the news bureau, to become a private in the Marines.

Allen and Lyon are both now with OWI.

Allen, who has directed press relations for the Security Exchange Commission and the Department of Justice, will succeed Smith as assistant director of operations, and Lyon, now assistant chief of the News Bureau, will succeed him as chief of the News Bureau.

Lyon has served as an executive of newspapers in New York city, and was editor of the Buffalo Times from 1933 to 1940. Gardner Cowles Jr., director of OWI domestic operations, said in accepting Smith's resignation:

"Paul Smith has done a superb job at OWI. We will miss him enormously. But we also respect him for wanting to get into active fighting with the Marines."

Medicine-Dropper Baby Has Gained Six Ounces

WILSON, Ark., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Arkansas' "medicine-dropper" baby, fed on a diet of milk with an occasional drop of whiskey, has gained six ounces in his 28 days of life and now weighs nearly two pounds.

Jimmy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown, gets most of his milk through a nipple with a medicine dropper acting as pump.

"He's doing swell," said the proud father today. "He's getting the very best of attention from Dr. (N. B.) Ellis, now measures nearly 13 1/2 inches in length and his features are rounding out."

Half of Nazi Planes

In West, Briton Reports

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—More than half of Germany's fighter plane force is now tied down by United States and RAF activity on the western front, Italy, Libya, and Malta, an RAF commentator said today.

He gave American air offensive great credit for occupying German fighter craft which otherwise might be used with effect against Stalingrad, and said that there was evidence that the Germans had hurriedly reinforced their fighter strength in the west by at least 5 per cent.

Fighting Option Given To Other Alien Groups

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Selective service headquarters said today that nationals of Australia, the Netherlands and Yugoslavia registered for the draft in this country had been given the option of joining their own fighting forces or those of the United States if called.

Previously, only nationals of Canada, Great Britain, India, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa had this option.

OPA Okays Puncturing Of Tops of Coffee Cans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(INS)—The Office of Price Administration today gave its approval to the puncturing of the tops of vacuum packed coffee cans by retailers at the time of sale in order to discourage hoarding.

Coffee cans so treated, said the agency, carrying the same ceiling price as those which have not been punctured.

WAR EFFORT FILMS.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Official motion pictures of the British war effort will be released for United States audiences under a contract with eight leading American distributors, it was announced today.

Rommel's Aug. 30 Order Seized by British Forces

CAIRO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The British disclosed today they had captured Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's order of the day dated August 30 in which he said, "Today the army has been reinforced by new divisions. The time has come to destroy the enemy."

The German communique of August 30 contained no word of the African land front. Early September 1, however, the British announced that Rommel, after a two-month pause on the El Alamein line, had struck again. But the offensive failed to budge the Allies and was written off by the Germans as mere armed reconnaissance.

The models are used to teach Army and Navy personnel how to identify different types of planes, estimate gun range, and determine "cones of fire" of planes. They are also used in training civilian airplane spotters.

The project began last year when Georgia's allotment was 180 sets of 50 planes each. This year's allotment is 87 sets of 30 models each, most of which are new types requested by the Bureau of Aeronautics.

On the basis of reports from 25 states participating in last year's program, Dr. Collins said 284,712 model planes had been approved by local inspection committees and shipped to receiving centers.

Stamina of America's 'First Lady' Amazes Britishers

By GLADWIN HILL.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Englishmen are incredulous over "the eternal stamina of the woman."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has had that effect on them since her arrival in Britain five days ago.

The personal charm of America's first lady has evoked pleased exclamations everywhere, but it is her tireless activity and the effortless way in which she spends whole days wearing out shoe leather visiting war establishments that has caused them to tip their hats in admiration.

In less than a week Mrs. Roosevelt has covered perhaps as much as a thousand miles just on jaunts around London. She has been on the go from as early as 7 a. m. to as late as 2 a. m. and appeared in half a dozen different places in a day. Not only this, but she has displayed as much enthusiasm watching girls tinker with gasoline engines at 7 o'clock in the evening as she did at 1 o'clock in the morning.

Scotland Yard.

The effects of the pace have begun to tell on her two Scotland Yard escorts. Veterans with years of leg work behind them, they are shifting ruefully from one tired "dog" to another.

Last Saturday Mrs. Roosevelt wore reporters down on her inspections of St. Paul's cathedral, air raid shelters, the bombed area, and civilian defense workers.

On Monday she tore 150 miles across country from the airport to three different lases, and in the process drove Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAACS, and Mrs. Winston Churchill, to near exhaustion.

Mrs. Hobby has disappeared entirely from the entourage. Mrs. Churchill reappeared today, fresh and smiling—but only after a day's time out.

Yesterday in three widely separated appearances within the space of three hours she had Mrs. Ellen Wilkinson, member of parliament, worn down to a dazed wonder.

"Really a remarkable woman," Mrs. Wilkinson commented.

The only person patently able to keep pace consistently with Mrs. Roosevelt is her secretary, Malvina Thompson, who plods impassively along at her elbow and explains, "I've had plenty of practice . . . been doing it nine years."

But it was noticed that even "Tiresless Tommy," after finishing yesterday morning's fire department and civilian defense rescue demonstrations, didn't reappear until lunch time today.

JEWISH DEPORTATIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The free Belgian news agency today reported that mass deportations of Jews from Belgium were continuing. Six hundred Jews, including women, have been sent from Liege to an unknown destination and 181 others were sent to Malines to join a contingent leaving for upper Silesia and the Ukraine, the agency said.

Halloween Presents Interlude In Restricted Social Pattern

... WITH HALLOWEEN coming at the weekend and coincident with the exciting Georgia-Alabama football game and the formal opening of the winter season at the Driving Club, life is destined to be very gay for the college and debutante sets, as a pleasant interlude in the otherwise restricted social pattern. The Atlanta students at the University of Georgia will, of course, return to the parental hearthside en masse in order to cheer their alma mater to victory at Grant Field Saturday afternoon. Scores of other students will come from near-by schools and colleges, bringing as their guests a bevy of charming visitors who will add interest and gaiety to the festivities.

Not being able to plan a Halloween ball without the stimulating presence of the debutantes, the Driving Club has invited the members of the club (who had vetoed a formal presentation at the ball) to be honor guests at the affair. Though there will be no spectacular entrance of the debs and their escorts as in former years, the group will be seated at one large table and will, of course, be the center of attraction. And to do its part as the perfect host, the club has invited the girls and their dates to assemble at 9:30 in the pink dining room for champagne cocktails as a proper prelude to the ball.

Helen Taulman, the pretty debutante president, has planned a luncheon in the Capital City Club's popular Mirador Room preceding the football game on Saturday, with a number of attractive visitors included among her guests. Covers will be placed for Anne Crane, of Birmingham, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Andrew J. Hansell, on Ninth street; Caroline Webster, of Greenville, S. C., who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Philip Alston, on The Prado; Mary Hurt Clayton, Frances Woodruff, Kay Young, Laura Shallenberger, Beverly Adams, Henry Dearheart, of Greenville, S. C.; Thornton Kennedy, Jack Adair, Bobby Bray, Lieutenant Allan Sampson, Bill Benoit, of Columbia, S. C.; John Marchant, of Greenville, S. C., and Ned Edwards, of Charlotte, N. C.

After the game a group of the debutante coterie will gather at Mary Carter's home on Habersham road for cocktails. Mary, as you know, is a senior at Sweet Briar, but she will arrive for the weekend early Saturday morning to visit her parents, the Frank Carters.

Dorothy Giddings will arrive tomorrow from Athens to spend the weekend with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Glenville Giddings, at Pinebloom, and she will bring as her guest Mrs. Gordon Jones' lovely young sister, Jean Creekmore, of Athens. Dorothy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, will entertain at a party of 16 at the Halloween ball for the two girls, and on Sunday Dorothy will honor Jean at an alfresco luncheon to be given at the picturesque cabin on the creek at the rear of Pinebloom. Among Dorothy's guests will be her schoolmates at Georgia, Cato Wheelchel and Jackie Bush, of Barnesville, who will spend the weekend with Cato's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David P. Wheelchel.

Mary Ann Robinson is another Georgia student who will spend the weekend at home with her parents, the Julian Robinsons. Mary Ann will bring as her guests lovely Frances Kelly, of Columbus, and Alice Battle, of Florida.

Bobby Bray, who has the distinction of being president of the Panhellenic Council and also president of the S. A. E. fraternity at Georgia, will spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sims Bray. He will have as his guests a quartet of his schoolmates, Shelby Myrick Jr., of Savannah; Rye Page, of Wilmington, N. C.; Jack Boardman, of Augusta, and Billy Gooch, who is the son of Lieutenant Commander Gooch of the U. S. Navy, stationed in Athens.

... A CHARMING Atlanta brunette once dyed her forelock a pale blond hue—and to startling effect. Perhaps it was because members of the sterner sex are reputed to prefer blondes.

At any rate, her chestnut brown hair has now reverted to its original type, because the gentleman of her choice definitely prefers brunettes.

Her marriage to the gentleman, who is a native of Philadelphia and is now with the U. S. Navy Air Corps, will take place in December. And afterwards the couple will live in Alameda, Cal. Can you name them?

... GLIMPSED AT the Girls' Battalion dance for Army and Navy officers on Tuesday evening at the Biltmore hotel. ... Helen Taulman, president of the Debutant Club, wearing a striking costume topped by a gold lame jacket and accented by huge topaz

FAST ACTION HELPS PREVENT MANY COLDS

From Developing...

At the first sign of a cold, put a few drops of Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Its quick action aids Nature's defenses against colds.

... And remember—when a head cold makes you suffer, or transient congestion "fills up" your nose, Va-tro-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) relieves irritation, (3) helps clear cold-clogged nasal passages. And brings relief! Follow directions in folder.

Mrs. Steed Heads U. D. C. Again

Mrs. E. A. Steed was re-elected president of the Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C., at a recent meeting. Other officers were elected as follows: Mrs. William Cole Jones, first vice president; Mrs. C. A. Matthews, second vice president; Miss Katherine Burford, recording secretary; Mrs. Carl Hudgins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. Sam Smith, treasurer; Mrs. A. L. Wade, historian; Miss Susie Johnson, registrar; Mrs. T. H. Smoot, recorder of Crosses of Service, and as trustees, Mesdames J. A. Hall, J. C. Johnson, A. L. Wade and Homer Wright.

Committees and chairmen to be appointed by the president will be announced at a later date.

Miss Jane Jordan Is Honor Guest

Thin Girl Must Get Up Early

By Ida Jean Kain.

So you are too thin? No doubt you think if you could just lie in bed in the morning and have breakfast brought up to you, that would be the finest way in the world to gain weight. It sounds good to me, too. But since you have to get up, get up!

Instead of staying in bed until the last possible minute, make a Spartan start 45 minutes to an hour earlier. That will allow for a real breakfast. You can't gain weight unless you eat, and this meal is your chance to get almost one-third of the calories you need for the entire day. Afterwards you will have enough time to lie down and rest for half an hour. And you won't have to rush to work, either. That one change would start most of you too-thin girls on the road to curves.

You don't believe it? A couple of ex-thin girls do. One girl gained 15 pounds; the other, 12 pounds. One wrote that she feels like a new person and has more endurance for work and play than she would have thought possible for her. The other girl whose "nerves" had been a threat to her career, now has a business promotion.

The three essentials for gaining are:

Meals at regular hours. Eating very slowly. Rest after meals.

Most thin girls have a highly active digestive tract that hurries the food along. Having the meals regularly, eating slowly and resting help you to get the "good" out of your food.

Getting up earlier means going to bed earlier so that you will feel fresh in the morning. At first you may not be able to drop off to sleep as promptly as you would like. But the routine of going to bed at the same hour every night will make sleep come more easily.

Don't do anything to keep yourself awake, like totting up the bills late at night. If you like to read yourself to sleep, choose something boring or soothing. No detective stories!

If you are the tense type, you probably should not take any exercises before retiring, other than a leisurely walk for a breath of fresh air. But you do need some calisthenics each day. Stretching and backward arm swinging will improve your posture. Floor exercises, taken on your back with knees flexed and stomach muscles contracted, will strengthen the mid-section and straighten out a sway-back. Rolling will keep the new weight from settling on the hips.

Send large three-cent-stamped return envelope for "The Weight-Gaining Manual" and "Posture Makes the Figure." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

ILL-BE DOGGED!
SCAFFPOOSE, Ore.—Raymond Tennant won't call that bound any more unless he's ready for immediate action. The dog responded to his master's whistle with a gust that knocked Tennant down, discharged his gun and sent him to a hospital with a bullet in his right arm.

WRECKED HIS RECORD.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A zealot for traffic safety, Police Inspector Dan Hollingsworth was proud of his unblemished driving record during 11 years as an officer. While making his last inspection tour—he enlisted in the Navy last week—another driver crashed into the back of his police cruiser, Hollingsworth's last official report was that of his first accident as a policeman.

MRS. JAMES MCKAY HARDIN. Mrs. Hardin was before her recent marriage Miss Emille Williams, Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Nelson Dana, of Atlanta.

Less Clothing Is Aid to Health

By Dr. William Brady.

"If strenuous exercise in a cold environment is undertaken by persons suitably clothed in woollens for protection, sweating is profuse and loss of salt may be significant."

That is quoted from an essay on "Water and Salt Requirements in Health and Disease" by John H. Talbott, M. D., Medical Clinic, Boston General Hospital, and Fatigue Laboratory, Harvard University, published in Jour. A. M. A., August 22, 1942.

Even at the beginning of strenuous exercise—whether it be hard work or hard play—one hardly need be clothed in woollens, and certainly it would be unsuitable to wear such clothing after getting fairly warmed up.

No physician or physiologist unequivocally states that persons must or should wear woollens or extra clothing in any circumstances for protection against anything but freezing. No physiologist or hygienist offers even a plausible argument for the theory or notion that the amount of clothing one wears in any environment should be determined by any other consideration than one's own physical comfort. Many plausible practitioners and specious medical writers or "authorities," as we call them when we cite them on our side of a controversy, especially eminent medical authorities who are nearly all dead, seem to share the view taken by Dr. Talbott.

Nevertheless, it is pleasant to observe that people in general are considerably less concerned about such "protection" today than people were a generation ago. For this more sensible and healthful habit we have two factors to thank—first, the feminine style or

Shortage of Actors Brings William Gargan New Up in Career

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28.—(INS) First round in "The Eve of St. Mark" movie battle goes to Hunt Stromberg. He has signed Eddie O'Shea, one of the Marines in Maxwell Anderson's hit.

Hunt sent me a jubilant wire announcing he has grabbed the hottest bet on Broadway. "Eddie is a cross between Spencer Tracy and Jimmie Cagney," enthuses Hunt. "I have just seen the test we took and it is marvelous. He has a personality that made the young women who saw the test with me absolutely swoon. Every company in the business tried to land him, but I have his seven-year contract reposing safely in my vault."

Whew! I'm coming up for air after that wire. Anyway, seems Hunt signed O'Shea after his performance the opening night of the play—and on the back of a postcard. The little matter of a first picture for O'Shea is not yet settled.

William Gargan is really too young to say he's getting a new lease on his career along with older heroes like Jack Holt Jr. or John Boies, who are beyond the immediate draft age. But with the heroes in their 20s lined up now with Uncle Sam, Bill begins to look awfully good to worried producers in dire need of leading men.

Gargan has had a strangely up and down career. He was on the verge of going places in a big way after he appeared with Carole Lombard in "They Knew What They Wanted"—but the big break just didn't materialize. Now M-G-M has signed him for "The Half Pint Kid," and taken an option on a long-termer on Gargan, who is just back from New York.

The final scene for the publicized "For Whom the Bell Tolls" was shot Saturday. Gary Cooper, who has worked for months on this picture, will go to New York on vacation with Mrs. Cooper. Ingrid Bergman made arrangements to leave for Rochester to join her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, and her little girl. Before Gary went, it was settled, all but the actual signing, that he play Dr. Wassell, naval hero, for Cecil B. De Mille. Gary's contract with Samuel Goldwyn has been completed, and he is free to choose his own material and go where he pleases. He is greatly interested in Wassell, selected by President Roosevelt as one of the outstanding naval heroes of the present war.

Al Jolson wires: "Dear Louella: Was in Miami last week and saw a great soldier who is loved equally as well by all the men in uniform as the civilian population in the entire Miami area. All you keep hearing is what a great guy Sergeant Clark Gable is. You may be glad to know he graduates next week, the 28th. Just a suggestion and I hope I'm not wrong, but I think all of Hollywood should send him some kind of congratulatory note on that day. He's going up the hard way—and that's the right way."

Jack Benny was back on the 20th Century-Fox lot for retakes on "The Meanest Man in the World" and here's a surprise: Sidney Lanfield, who directed the picture, is not directing the added scenes. Maestro Ernst Lubitsch, no less, is in charge. Jack wants to get Ernst to direct his first United Artists' picture, and it looks as if it may be arranged.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Roland Drew spent most of his 72-hour furlough with Julie Bishop, Warners' red-haired glamor girl. When the war is over, and maybe before, Julie will become Mrs. Drew; Rags Ragland putting on all the charm for Margaret Savage, M-G-M cutie, at Slapsy Maxie's; the Bubbles Schinasi-Arthur Horn-blow Jr. romance has reached the serious stage; and Arthur receives a telegram or long-distance call every day; Cesar Romero was inducted in the Coast Guard Friday; George Brent Thursday and Victor Mature Monday, giving Uncle Sam three more of our movie heroes in that branch of the service; Dennis Morgan is achieving a big hit as the Hollywood Canteen's singing bus boy; Ann Sothern, followed by the camera, was doing her shopping at the farmers' market. I was doing the same thing—but without a camera. That's all today. See you tomorrow! But Walter Florell, New York, says: "If you get 10 per cent you'll make the Japs temperamental."

London, Tuesday.—Sunday morning I visited the American Red Cross Washington Club for our enlisted personnel. They must find this a pleasant place, for it was crowded. A group of service men stationed in or near London serve as a king of advisory house committee.

In the big lounge room downstairs was a boy playing the piano, and many boys sitting around talking, lounging, reading papers. Some of the boys appeared lonely, but most of them looked happy and interested in their surroundings. Boys were in the snackbar, boys upstairs in the library; boys were checking in or out of their rooms; and downstairs games of various kinds were going on in a room where a mural painted by an army artist enlivened one wall.

We went into the cafeteria where a number of service men had gathered. As I walked by, one of the boys asked, "How's Poughkeepsie?" And it turned out that Poughkeepsie was his home. There were a number of boys from the south—Texas, Georgia, Louisiana—and for them the weather must be trying, indeed, for over here people do not keep their houses as warm as we do at home, and this year they are even a little more careful than usual about using fuel. It rains a good deal here, and if one has never worn wool socks and warm clothes before, they will be needed these autumn days.

One boy asked me if I had seen a girl he knew since her marriage. Another group told me they wanted to have a photograph taken with me. Some, in RAF uniform, said they would soon be in their own U. S. A. uniforms after flying for months with the British.

Afterwards we drove to the Churchill home. Here we found an interesting group at lunch—the head of the RAF, Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Porter; Lady Portal, Foreign Minister Mr. Anthony Eden, young Robert Hopkins, up for the day in London on leave from his American Army unit; Miss Mary Churchill, Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill's youngest daughter, who is 20 years old and has worked her way up from the ranks to sergeant and is now a cadet officer in training. She went back to camp in the evening, and her sister, Sarah, who is an officer in the WAAFS, doing a particularly skilled job, arrived at 8:30 in the evening and had to be back on duty at 9:30 the next morning. Lord Cherwell joined the group for supper.

In the afternoon Mrs. Churchill, Miss Brooks and Lady Portal took us to see a maternity hospital which they have organized for junior officers' wives in a house lent to them by Lady Barron. They can take 22 patients at a time, and I must say that the whole atmosphere was most pleasant and happy. The babies were the loveliest I have ever seen—healthy, plump, beautifully cared for. Those young mothers live through anxious times, with their husbands missing or off in some distant part of the world, and most of them go through their own ordeal for the first time. Yet every one of them could smile and show her baby with pride.

There is a little convalescent home near by where they go for further training in child care and for a final rest period before returning to their homes.

Monday morning we started out on a full day to see some of the women's work with the military forces, but I shall have to tell you about that tomorrow.

Young Girl Is Wise To Refuse To Decide Between Two Men

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: I am a girl 17 years old. Two years ago I started going with a boy (A) whom I cared for very much. Six months ago we decided it would be better if we called it quits. I know he liked me, but we couldn't get along.

I have been going with B for two months. He loves me very much and is very good to me. A has come back and has asked me for a date. I gave him one, and B got mad. He says I must decide between them. I like both of them and see no reason why I should give either of them up. I'm not engaged and have no intentions of marrying for a good many years.

A treated me pretty badly when I went with him, and probably will again, if I give him a chance, which I don't intend to do. Please help me, Dixie. I don't know what to do.

UNDECIDED. You seem to have answered your question saying that you do not intend to give A another chance to go with you. I fully agree with you that there is no reason for you to give up either of them, nor should you make any decision between them. If you are not engaged you have the right to go with anyone you wish. As you have had an example of his treatment and you know that a reputation is forthcoming, why bother if he is that type? You might tell him that you know how he will act from past experience and that you see no reason of having to go through with it again. If you really would like to date him again, you might tell him that you will give him a probation period of a few weeks to see how he will act. Tell him that you will put him on trial.

Grady Auxiliary Makes Appeal

In season and out the Grady Hospital Auxiliary serves the indigent sick of Atlanta and Fulton county. This auxiliary was organized nearly 50 years ago when the institution served only a fraction of the number of persons served today. Its members organized both Steiner and the Colored Women's Auxiliary, thus providing a service to all sections of the hospital.

At present the women are making a special appeal for old clothing for men, women and children. Also the annual jelly shower will be held at the November meeting and the Christmas gift on every tray will be provided through the co-operation of the Federated Women's Clubs.

Mrs. John W. Morrison presided over the recent meeting when reports were made by the various chairmen.

It was in the pediatric clinic at Grady a dozen years ago that nurses' aid training was inaugurated, and as a result several of the nurses' aides in the present war program are now working with and through the Red Cross.

Miss Nell Moss Is Honor Guest

Mrs. J. L. Freeman and Mrs. J. M. Comer will entertain at a luncheon and linen shower Saturday day complementing Miss Nell Moss, lovely bride-elect, in the Paradise Room. Saturday afternoon Misses Estelle King and Anne Walker will honor Miss Moss with a tea on Beverly road.

Miss Betty Medlock will entertain at a buffet supper November 3, in compliment to this bride-elect at her home in Decatur. Mrs. Charles Mitchell and Mrs. David Brandon, sisters of the bride-to-be, will entertain the bridal party, out-of-town guests and relatives after the wedding rehearsal on November 6.

Tuesday evening Miss Virginia Milner was hostess at a dessert party and kitchen shower at her home on Rumson road in compliment to Miss Moss, and Wednesday evening Misses Mary and Anne Bumstead were hostesses at a buffet supper and shower at their home on Houston Mill road. Recently Miss Claire Wilson gave a party and shower for the bride-elect. Others who have entertained for Miss Moss include Misses Frances Scott, Georgia Ann Hannah, Ruth Fratzscher, Lewis Street and Doris Milholland.

Lt. and Mrs. Allen To Be Hosts Nov. 7

Invitations were received yesterday by a group of prominent Atlantans to attend a luncheon to be given on Saturday, November 7 by Lieutenant and Mrs. Ivan Allen Jr.

Honor guests for the affair will be Governor-nominate Ellis Arnall and Mrs. Arnall, of Newnan, who will spend the weekend here. The affair, which will precede the Tech-Kentucky football game, will take place at the Piedmont Driving Club.

I never thought, in days of bliss,
That things would ever come to this . . .
That in the cold and sullen dawn,
with spirits low and slipping,
When from my humble couch, I
creep,
Still muddled by a heavy sleep,
I could not listen to the golden coffee gently dripping.
Oh, hot and bracing, bubbling
brew
I cannot bear to part from you—
How often has your gentle kiss awakened me from slumber—
How often at the break of day
You sent me blithely on my way Filled with a hot contentment from the cups I fear to number.
If you were but a pot of tea
And said that you were leaving me
I think I might endure the loss
with calm and stoic reason.
But how can I with ease give up
The virile strength that's in the cup
Now that the frost is in the air and doughnuts are in season.
Oh, stand me up against a wall
Where heroes calmly smoke and fall
And I will laugh behind my mask
and croak without a quiver,
Or bind me to a railroad track
Or stuff my carcass in a sack
And haul me in the dead of night
and fling me in the river.
But I, like Mister Poe, implore
You don't give me that "never-more" . . .
Let's send a fleet of ships to cruise
upon a coffee junket
For, though the doughnut, fat and sweet,
Is now on hand for us to eat,
A doughnut is no good unless there's coffee there to dunk it.

Overcoat Time

Wintry breezes of a few days ago reminded me it was time to search the house for that dear old overcoat, or what the moths may have left of it.

Being a he-man with a scorn of mulling up, I have been saving that coat for real winter. I have come down on the roiley with young men golfers and horseback riders, outdoor men, who were swathed in overcoats in far milder weather. But not for me. But on this morning a supposed friend who drove me to town dumped me at the Candler building, so I had to brave the blasts past the Healey building, and across the viaduct.

The weather reports used to give Medicine Hat, in the far northwest, as the coldest spot in America, always excepting a bank's third vice president's heart. It got so cold in Medicine Hat that the bureau abandoned reports, or so I have been told, for fear its statistics would be discredited.

But, without statistics at hand, I will submit any corner of the tall Healey building against Medicine Hat or the north end of Hudson's Bay or that Little America adjacent to the South Pole. On a windy day.

This is no reflection on the Healey building. It is delightfully warm inside, where I have spent hours before venturing further. The owners can hardly be expected to heat the exterior.

On second thought, I think a suit of ankle-length underwear, preferably fleece-lined, might be better than an overcoat. I haven't worn that type of garment since my last winter in New York—I trust it was my last—but I may have to take up the habit again. But I will go just so far. I swear I won't stand for red flannels, if such garments are still in circulation.

They're taking them in the Army now, regardless. To a certain extent. A cauliflower ear or a red birthmark on your cheek won't keep you out.

Latest gag I've heard was about a drafted man who had lost both arms in a train wreck years before. He was accepted. The big shot explained:

"You just precisely match up."

UNCLE SAM MAKES A SALE—One of his $78-a-month nephews, Sergeant Edward Hogan Shannon, formerly of Griffin, Ga., now of Fort McPherson, bought $7,000 worth of war bonds from Susan Wade, of WAGA, yesterday at Five Points. Sergeant Shannon, an optometrist in pre-war days, is attached to the Fort McPherson hospital. He was inspired to turn his worldly goods into bonds when other members of Captain Elmer A. Musarra's detachment started authorizing monthly salary deductions.

We've got a blind man assigned to fill gasoline tanks and you can tell him when to quit."

Down in Eastman, Ga., the Dodge county board of education fired Mrs. Kathleen Carswell, the home demonstration agent, whose salary was $65 a month.

Which is none of my affair or yours. But you never heard of such a howl as was raised in the Eastman Times-Journal. Not only by Editor Methvin but by citizens who wrote letters to the paper.

That's one thing about a rural county. Folks know you and like you or hate you and they'll go to bat for you or against you.

Maybe Mrs. Carswell has her job back by now. Let's hope so.

BORIS STRINGS ALONG.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 28.—(P)—A DNB dispatch from Sofia said King Boris opened a new session of the Bulgarian parliament today with a speech from the throne, declaring that Bulgaria was willing to cooperate with the Axis powers in the realization of a new European order based on lasting peace and justice.

"All you have to do is watch it. If you can see any part of the tail, and if the bomb looks oblong, there's nothing to worry about. It'll miss."

"But if you see only the points, and it looks like a perfectly round dot . . . Well . . . then it's time to stand from under."

Courson should know. He saw hundreds of bombs loosed upon his and other Liberty ships for five consecutive days during the trip to Russia. He saw more fall in Archangel.

INCENDIARIES DROPPED.

VICHY, Oct. 28.—(P)—Vichy newspapers said today 186 incendiary devices were down to have been dropped by plane on Unoccupied France during 10 days, ending October 18.

BUILDERS OF GEORGIA.

Governor-Nominee Ellis Arnall remarked the other evening at a meeting of The Ten, when asked what books he had been reading lately, that he had been studying Georgia history—trying to find out more about the state and the people who had put their lives into its building over the past two centuries. Mr. Arnall commented on the interesting fact that many, many people have had part in this great enterprise, and that he only wished that there were more records available of these builders of Georgia.

That started a round of conversation among the members of the club and the guests, in which it was generally agreed that we know certain outstanding personalities—men like Stephens, Toombs, Grady, Candler, Cobb, and so on and on—but how many of us could name a hundred men in this and that field of endeavor who were really great builders? How many master farmers could we name? How many teachers? How many preachers? How many lawyers? How many doctors? How many bankers? How many manufacturers? How many railroad builders? How many journalists? How many engineers? How many scientists?

Beginning next week, perhaps,

I hope to devote one column each week, for an indefinite period, to some of these builders of Georgia whose names do not appear in our history books. In order to have the widest possible selection of these builders of Georgia, I invite suggestions from the readers of this column. Please send me your nominee, or nominees, giving me your reasons for nominating such person, or persons; which will mean information about the achievements of such person, or persons. I will appreciate your cooperation.

Please keep in mind the fact that I am not thinking about the acknowledged leaders—the men and women whose achievements appear in our history books—but those persons who went quietly about their work in some major field of development, lifting the level of life about them and, as a matter of fact, enriching and enlarging the life of our entire state and section.

For example, I think I will start the series with a column on Samuel Spencer, organizer of the Southern Railway. This will give you some idea of what I am thinking about. How many people in Georgia today know the contribution of Mr. Spencer in the building of this state and this part of the south? He is typical of the persons I hope to write about in this particular series. With this as a suggestion, will you nominate some person? I do not promise to write about all the persons nominated, but it certainly will greatly help me to have these suggestions, and I hope that such a study of the builders of Georgia will prove not only interesting, but profitable.

OCD Revises Rules to Handle Enemy Bombs

New Incendiary Types Invented by Both Japs, Nazis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(P)—Director James M. Landis, of the Office of Civilian Defense, today announced revised instructions for dealing with new types of enemy fire bombs, chief of which he listed as an attached explosive charge set off by a time fuse.

Discussing new types of bombs being used by both Germans and Japanese, the OCD chief termed the "jet of water" still the most potent weapon in fighting large and small incendiaries.

While many delayed-explosion bombs are attached to the regular type incendiaries which burst into flames upon impact, the effect of the time bomb is largely incendiary, Landis said, and defense workers should dampen the area around the bomb from a protected position.

The OCD announcement warned civilians against use of "all such smothering agents as 'bomb extinguishing' powders, blankets, coats, and snufflers. They are entirely without merit and may endanger the lives of persons who depend upon them."

Use of either the water "spray" system or sand, is no longer recommended, the OCD said, "because the possibility of fragmentation makes it too dangerous to approach the bomb sufficiently close to apply them."

New types of enemy bombs aimed at starting fires and at the same time "eliminating" the fire-fighting crews include:

The old-style 2.2-pound fire bomb "with an extension of the nose containing a larger explosive charge" which increases the total weight to five pounds.

A combination incendiary and high explosive bomb, about the same size and shape as the old-style 110-pound high explosive bomb, which ejects 60 incendiary units and explodes a 12-pound charge of TNT.

A phosphorus-oil bomb similar to the 110-pound explosive bomb, which may be extinguished by water but flames anew when dry.

A Japanese bomb weighing about 110 pounds, and designed to start several scattered small fires.

Johnson Denies Report About Leaving Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(P)—Senator Hiram Johnson, veteran California Republican, branded as a "base fabrication" today a statement that he would resign from the Senate to pave the way for appointment of former President Hoover as his successor.

Pat Bradley, president of the Young Democrats of California, said yesterday that Johnson planned to resign after next Tuesday's election and, if Earl Warren were elected governor, Hoover would be appointed senator.

The Pulse of the Public

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

IRATE FARMER AWARDS "IRON CROSS" TO HAWKINS.

Editor, Constitution: In Sunday's Constitution of October 25, page eight-A, column 2, I find this reading matter:

"General Hawkins said: The trouble with the farm population is that no man past 40 or 45 years of age wants to work—they want to sit on the porch and read the newspapers. They leave the farm work to the women and children."

"These older men in Georgia will have to go to work because we are going to take the younger men."

Dear Editor: Predicated upon the foregoing statement—in joint session with the women and children, we, the farm population of the state, older men, have awarded the general the "iron cross" with the "dog" mounted thereon as the biggest liar attached to any army or armed service in the world.

While our boys are at the front shooting the Germans and Japs, we, walking between the plow handles are feeding, not only our population, Army, defense workers, essential business workers, inefficient parasites, and a great portion

Drama, Music in Film Spotlight

Music is the chief ingredient of the new movie bill of fare offered on the screens of Atlanta theaters, beginning today and tomorrow with Warner Bros. musical story of the life of George M. Cohan—

"Yankee Doodle Dandy," holding the spotlight. A musical comedy, "Springtime in the Rockies," opens at the Fox tomorrow. Drama is offered at Loew's Grand in "Eyes in the Night," and at the Rialto in "Pride of the Yankees." The Rhoades offer holds over "Seven Sweethearts."

Loew's Grand
An amazing adventure story of how a blind detective fights his enemies, guided by a seeing-eye dog—"Eyes in the Night," comes to Loew's Grand theater today with Edward Arnold, Ann Harding and Donna Reed in the leading roles.

The story revolves around the efforts of enemy spies to get information about a secret weapon. A murder is committed and Arnold is called on the case. His uncanny sense of hearing along with the help of his dog aids him in bringing to justice the right criminal.

Rialto
"Pride of the Yankees" is still going strong at the Rialto theater where it begins its fourth week today.

Starring Gary Cooper and Teresa Wright, "Pride of the Yankees" tells the story of Lou Gehrig's personal and sports career. Cooper and Miss Wright play the parts of the young Gehrigs.

Comedy, romance and heartache is woven into this great story by Samuel Goldwyn, producer of "Ball of Fire" and other screen hits.

Rhodes
The light and airy "Seven Sweethearts," starring Van Heflin, Kathryn Grayson and Marsha Hunt moves to the screen of the Rhodes theater today for its second week in Atlanta.

Set in a quaint old Dutch village, "Seven Sweethearts," tells the amusing and colorful story of how a reporter, covering a festival for his newspaper, runs into the arms of seven love-hungry girls. Miss Grayson does the vocals to several musical selections.

Envoy Wields Torch
LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky, wearing a workman's safety goggles, drew the cheers of workers and bystanders today when he wielded an acetylene torch on the iron railings outside his embassy. He salvaged 100 tons of scrap from them to make munitions for Russia.

Russian Party Slogans Praise United Nations

Anniversary Observance To Be Featured by Militant Tone.

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Communist party has set a militant tone for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution with slogans praising Russian armed forces and their British and American comrades-in-arms.

These slogans will be emblazoned on Red banners by demonstrators during the November 7 observance. Whether the traditional parade in Red square will be held has not yet been announced, but observers recall that a year ago, even though the Germans were hammering at the gates of the city, Stalin reviewed Red troops from the top of Lenin's mausoleum.

To give employment and to get employment . . . A Want Ad in The Constitution is equally effective in both cases.

Madagascar To Aid U. S. Graphite Needs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP) William L. Batt, American member of the Combined Raw Materials Board, said today that within 48 hours after the British moved in to the capital of Madagascar, the board had arranged for the shipment to the United States of 10,000 tons of vitally needed Madagascar graphite.

Batt told of the incident to illustrate the co-ordination and co-operation of the economic and military forces of the United Nations.

KING RECEIVES WRIGHT.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Theodore P. Wright, director of Aircraft for the United States War Production Board, was received by King George today. Wright and a number of American aeronautical engineers arrived in Britain several days ago for an inspection of British production methods.

Increase War Aid, Schools Urged

Increased participation of schools in war activities during "Education Week" November 8-14 was urged yesterday by Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, after Governor Tammage issued a proclamation designating the special week.

Although he doesn't recommend omitting the customary special programs, addresses and other ceremonies in connection with the observance, the state superintendent said "this year it seems highly appropriate that we show our pride in educational freedom by definite action."

Schools, he said, might set up a goal, such as the collection of a certain amount of scrap during "Education Week," and then go to work to attain that goal. He emphasized that this year's theme is "Education for Free Men."

"Yankee Doodle Dandy," Warner Bros., great life story of George M. Cohan, opens its local premier at the Roxy theater tomorrow.

James Cagney, Walter Huston, Joan Leslie, Jeanne Cagney and Rosemary De Camp are the main characters. Cagney is cast as the show world's greatest song and dance man, George M. Cohan. His imitation of this great Broadway producer is said to be his greatest screen achievement. He enters the story when Cohan is a young hoofer, just beginning to feel his importance in the show business, and he carries through until the day, when, as the greatest living showman, he visits the President to receive an award for his great work.

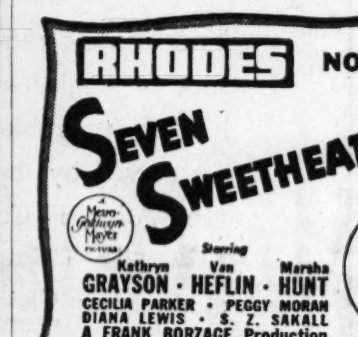

Huston plays the part of Cohan's father—one of the celebrated Four Cohans, who made vaudeville history many years ago. Joan Leslie is "Mary"—the Mary about whom Cohan wrote one of his prettiest melodies. Rosemary De Camp is Cohan's mother, and Irene Manning portrays Fay Templeton. Many of Cohan's most popular musical selections such as "Over There," "You're a Grand Old Flag," "Give My Regards to Broadway," and "The Yankee Doodle Boy" are offered in the picture.

Fox
The sparkling new Technicolor musical comedy, "Springtime in the Rockies," which brings together on the screen Betty Grable, John Payne, Cesar Romero and Carmen Miranda, makes its bow on the screen of the Fox theater tomorrow. Harry James and his band supply the music.

Filmed against the background of beautiful Lake Louise, "Springtime in the Rockies" offers equal shares of comedy, music and romance.

Syphilis Termed City's No. 1 Health Menace

Do you know what is the No. 1 menace to the health of all Atlantans—the greatest menace to you, no matter who you are nor where you are?

It's syphilis, and not the more talked of diseases such as tuberculosis, cancer and pneumonia.

The Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce of Atlanta want every one in this city to realize that fact, and to think about it, because statistics show that more than 40,000 persons in Atlanta have syphilis!

Called Saboteur. That means one out of every 10 persons in this city has syphilis—a disease that drags a human down physically and mentally. (One-fifth of all the persons sent to insane asylums go because of syphilis.)

It's Atlanta's No. 1 saboteur—and syphilis is doing more to help Hitler and the Japs than all their fifth columnists put together. So what's to be done about it?

"We must stamp out syphilis," the two civic organizations warn in a letter being sent key Atlantans. "We are counting on you as a conscientious citizen to help. What can you do?"

Take Blood Test. "1. You can take a blood test for syphilis for your own protection. This action would encourage every person whom you employ to take one annually. You should require such persons to take annual physical examinations.

"2. You should insist that instruction on venereal disease be made a part of the hygiene course in local high schools.

"3. You should make it clear to health officers, policemen and judges that you expect them, as public servants, to follow city, county and state laws on the confinement, segregation and treatment of persons infected with syphilis and other venereal diseases.

"Do you approve the control steps recommended or do you have other suggestions? Your Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce will welcome a letter from you, and also a resolution from any club or professional organization of which you are a member. We are sure that such response will be influential in causing proper measures to be put into effect to stamp out syphilis—our city's No. 1 menace."

California Governor Urges 'Meatless Day'

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28. (AP)—Governor Olson called upon Californians to observe voluntary meatless Tuesdays for the duration of the war beginning next Tuesday.

It will be all right, his proclamation said, to eat such less-demanded meats as liver, heart, kidneys, sweetbreads, tongue and cuts from the head and feet of animals on Tuesdays, but not other kinds.

Leaders of Czechs, Greeks Pray for Overthrow of Axis

By ERNEST AGNEW.
LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Confident leaders of two little allied governments, Czechoslovakia and Greece, prayed tonight at anniversary services for the quick overthrow of the Axis which overran their countries but failed to quell their love of liberty.

State Masons Name E. D. Wells Grand Master

Home Is Opened to Non-Masonic Children at Macon Session.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 28.—(P)—E. D. Wells, of Savannah, was elevated today to worshipful master of the Georgia Masonic Grand Lodge, succeeding Zach Arnold, of Fort Gaines.

Under the lodge procedure of rotating officers, other posts were assumed later in the afternoon. Arnold told the gathering that Georgia's 40,000 Masons have pledged their utmost "loyalty and support" to the war effort, and reported the largest gain in membership in many years.

The gain in membership during the past year was more than 1,000, as compared with 63 the preceding year, and to a long number of previous years when losses were reported, Arnold declared in his address.

A bill to open the doors of the Masonic Home to children of non-Masonic families was approved today by the lodge.

Rains in State Insufficient To Condition Soil

More Needed for Seeding, Especially in South Georgia.

A synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Georgia for the week ending Tuesday, October 27, shows temperatures, averaging 2 to 6 degrees above normal, were generally favorable for crop and vegetation growth.

Light to moderate amounts of rains falling during the week were insufficient, and more rain is needed to condition soil for seeding and growth, especially in the eastern counties south of Augusta and Macon.

Harvesting of cotton and sweet potatoes is about completed, and corn has been gathered in the southern and some central counties, while much remains to be harvested in the northern and other central counties. Harvesting and threshing of peanuts and haymaking are almost completed, and harvesting of pecans of good quality in the southern counties is progressing rapidly.

Sowing of oats and wheat continues and vegetables are in good condition, especially in the northern counties where rain was plentiful.

Druggists Warned On Price Control

The Office of Price Administration yesterday warned more than 5,000 druggists in the southeast that failure to strictly observe provisions of the price control act is sabotage.

The warning sent out by L. L. Niedrach, regional drug representative of OPA, said every drug store owner is familiar, or should be, with requirements as to ceiling prices and the filing of price lists with local war price and rationing boards. But this is not done in many cases, he said.

He warned that firms who do not comply with the law face severe penalties and said that a check of individual stores would be made shortly.

"When we find they are not complying, we can only follow the law, and they must face the consequences," Niedrach said.

There are eight southern states in the southeast section—Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama and Virginia.

Cheating Death 5 Times, Coates Again Faces Chair

Saved five times by legal manipulations, Charles Coates again faces death in Georgia's electric chair for the slaying two years ago of Corporal Fred Black, of the Georgia State Patrol, at Ringgold. The United States circuit court of appeals has denied a writ of habeas corpus to Coates in a hearing at New Orleans. He now must be sentenced to the chair by the Catoosa county superior court in which he was originally convicted.

A Million Dollars to Relieve Piles

It is estimated that over a million dollars annually is spent for various remedies for relieving piles. Yet any druggist will tell you that soothing, cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment will allay pile torture in a few minutes. 35c a box; 60c in tube with applicator. Peterson's Ointment brings prompt, joyful relief from itching. Money back if not delighted. (adv.)

Italy observed an anniversary also, the 20th of the Fascist march on Rome. The celebration, far more subdued than in previous years, centered about Premier Mussolini, who opened a war exhibition but did not speak.

Adolf Hitler's telegram of best wishes and congratulations to his companions-in-arms, Mussolini and King Vittorio Emanuele, Cathedral Service.

The Czechs celebrated the 24th anniversary of the birth of their government with a service at St. Paul's cathedral. The archbishop of Canterbury predicted that the nation would rise again.

The Czech government, giving a picture of the terror in the homeland, reported that 288 Czechs were put to death between July 4 and September 30.

Official German figures, the Czech government went on, showed 1,376 Czechs had been executed between May 28 to July 3. "In the same period," the Czech statement said, "54 whole families were exterminated and two villages, Lidice and Lezaky. . . . Of some 100,000 Czech Jews, about 80,000 have been deported to eastern Poland. Most of the secondary schools have been closed. Working hours have been extended to 12 daily. There is little food."

For the Greeks, it was the second anniversary of the Italian invasion of their homeland.

King George II, of Greece, laid a wreath on the cenotaph in honor of Greek soldiers killed resisting the invaders and joined hundreds of his countrymen to pray for quick deliverance of the homeland.

Prime Minister Churchill in a message to the Greek people said the day was coming when Greece's armed forces "will be avenging your present sufferings."

Foreign Secretary Eden told of "swelling numbers" of Greeks in the battle of the Mediterranean and plans for the liberation of Greece "in full confidence that victory and freedom come nearer every day."

EARTH TREMORS FELT.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(P)—Two "fairly mild" earthquake shocks, about 2,100 miles from New York in an undetermined direction, were recorded by the Fordham University seismograph at 6:51.17 a. m. and 6:50.27 a. m. (E. W. T.) today.

Amazing way for "run-down" people to get new vitality... pep!

A truly marvelous change can be brought about in miserable digestive complaints, underweight, weakness, loss of appetite, by two important steps:

- 1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
- 2—energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness . . . yet have no organic trouble or lack of function . . . and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number . . . if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

S.S.S. is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient . . . and to promote those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat . . . to make use of it as nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality . . . pep . . . become animated . . . more attractive!
